A Steep, Eroding Slope

EROSION EATS AWAY HILL — Erosion is fast eating away this hill on Hickey Boulevard between the Daly City boundary line and Junipero Serra Freeway. The erosion started during last year's heavy rains and worsen almost daily. Engineers agree that the steep slope must be regraded before new rains cause serious damage and, possibly, landslides. How serious the erosion is magnified in inset. (Post Photo)

RESULT OF EASTMOOR SLIDE

Doelger, Jeff High Sued

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Lawsuits totalling $100,000 have been filed against Henry Doelger Builder, Inc., and the Jefferson Union High School District as a result of a huge earthslide on Eastmoor Avenue last year.

The suit, filed last week by Daly City city attorney Albert Polonsky, also names as defendants Gribaldo, Jacobs, Jones & Associates; Thoedore V. Tronoff, Civil Engineer and Surveyor, Inc.; Piombo Construction, and; four John Does in the $50,000 action.

Another $50,000 suit was lodged against the Jefferson High School District at the same time.

The complaint stems from the near-disastrous cave-in and mud slide near the Westmoor High School on Eastmoor Avenue last spring. Several homes were damaged in the slide, but no one was injured.

Utility pipes and phone lines were severed when the road fell away, however a major west coast communications link narrowly escaped being swept away.

Shortly after the incident, concerned parties entered into a "no admission" agreement in order to expedite repairs on the roadway. Doelger paid the lion's share of the repairs, according to a city hall spokesman.

In his complaint, Polonsky alleged that the slide was caused by improper excavating of the hillside below Eastmoor Avenue where Doelger planned to construct several apartment buildings.

"At said time and place (August 22, 1968) defendants . . . so negligently, carelessly, wantonly, and recklessly inspected, tested, shored, excavaged, operated, managed, controlled and maintained said adjoining premises, so as to cause said premises to be in an unsafe and improper condition, by which a slide was caused . . ." the complaint filed with county clerk Marvin Church on August 21, 1969, declared.

In addition to lodging the same allegations against the Jefferson High School District, Polonsky's complaint pointed out that prior to commencement of the execavating and grading, the district "knew, or in the exercise of ordinary care should have known, that the soil and earth of Eastmoor Avenue was so related to the real property of defendants that the property of said defendants formed a natural and actual support of the soil and earth of (Daly City's) property on Eastmoor Avenue."

The complaint blamed the school district for not exercising their powers to prevent the other defendants from improperly excavating and grading on the site.

Rain-Soaked Soil

Serious D.C. Erosion

Heavy rains that soaked the state last year have been blamed for the serious erosion of a steep hillside on Hickey Boulevard between the Daly City boundry line and Junipero Serra Freeway.

Engineers hope to change the slope of the hill — from its present 1½ to 1 slope to a 2 to 1 grade — and replant it before the spring rains bring additional erosion and, perhaps, landslides.

Daly City, San Mateo County and Suburban realty officials are expected to enter an agreement shortly authorizing Arthur (Buzz) Haskins to regrade the area.

Haskins has informed the city that he is desperately in need of fill material for a project he is undertaking at Tanforan in San Bruno and could reslope the hill for about $6,800.

County Engineers' estimates on the job top $18,000, a Daly City spokesman said.

Removal of some 1,200 cubic yards of earth will be necessary to accomplish the job, acting Daly City city engineer Dave McAbee said.

The three agencies are expected to share the cost of the regrading. The matter has been placed on the County's agenda for this week. — FLP

D.C. Eyes Alarm Tie-In

Something of a precedent will soon be set if and when Daly City officials approve a request to permit a Colma, unincorporated company to tie into their police communications center.

Donald C. Smith, a resident of Daly City and owner of a new auto parts company in Colma, unincorporated, recently asked the Daly City Council for permission to connect his burglar alarm system into the police system in Daly City.

Smith said at present, police protection for his firm is furnished by Colma during the day and Broadmoor at night. Neither of these departments has a "ring-in" alarm board—the closest being Daly City.

The alarm system was installed by the Night and Day Burglar Alarm Company of San Francisco and is considered useless unless it can be brought directly into a police department, according to police.

Daly City's role in the matter will be simply to relay any calls to Broadmoor police in the event the alarm is triggered, Smith explained.

Daly City Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett said "it behooves us to cooperate with these people" in the prevention of crime that has been on the increase in the area.

But Councilman Micheal DeBernardi said the "door should be left open to charge them (or others desiring such service) perhaps by charging $1 per year."

"I believe you should have them on notice that it may cost them," DeBernardi said.

City Attorney Albert Polonsky noted that services could be terminated "on reasonable notice" at any time.

Polonsky said he has already talked to Chief Roland Petrocchi about the request and promised he and the chief would "keep an eye on the operation."

"In my opinion, the city would run into more red tape by charging them for the service," Polonsky said.

The matter will be discussed futher during tonight's regular council meeting.

A DALY CITY 'UPROAR'

Residents Chide Conduct Of Neighborhood Children

A score of residents in the Evergreen-Irvington district of Daly City are in an uproar over the conduct of neighborhood children who, they claim, are damaging their property and disturbing the peace with shopping cart "coasters."

George Miller, a longtime resident of Irvington Street, informed the council during its regular meeting Monday that the children are not only trespassing in his backyard on the pretense they are retrieving baseballs, but damaging his front shrubbery with their homemade coaster carts.

The youths make the coasters from shopping cart wheels taken from various supermarkets, a strongly worded letter sent to the city on August 27 alleged.

Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett turned the matter over to the police department several days ago and the area had been patrolled on an increased scale with little or no luck in apprehending the youth, it has been reported.

Another spokesman appearing at the Monday council meeting asked that his name not be used for fear of reprisal from the unruly youth, who, he charged, are now throwing blocks of wood with nails in them at a sickly neighbor.

The 30-year resident of the street further informed the council that the coasters ram into the side of his home, damaging the siding he recently installed.

The troubles started about a year ago the council was told. Since then, coasters have torn up greenery in front of homes, kids have continued to climb over fences and onto roofs, neighbors have been verbally abused "with language that would make a stevedore blush" and dogs run loose, creating a disturbance.

The delegation appealed to Mayor Lycett for help and he immediately instructed city manager Dave Rowe to check into the complaint.

"These people are going to need relief from this harassment. Perhaps we will just be harassing (these youths) to another area, but we must do something," the mayor said.

BPOA Directors Meeting Thursday

Directors of the Broadmoor Property Owners' Association will meet at 8 p.m., Thursday, with a major topic expected to be a September 17 hearing on a petition to have the Broadmoor-Colma Unincorporated Area annexed to the city of Daly City.

The Broadmoor Association generally opposes annexation to Daly City, which nearly surrounds the unincorporated section, according to BPOA president Al Ickler.

Ickler also announced that he will be at the Community Center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday to answer any questions — "pro or con," he said — concerning an annexation request of three Broadmoor property owners and a planned march by many residents of the area to the local Agency Formation Commission hearing in Redwood City.

The BPOA president, who has been leading for several years a Broadmoor campaign for incorporation, a request denied recently by LAFCO, said the residents involved will be "going after our right to choose our own type of government."

He said many citizens of the community of some 9,000 persons were "only asking a choice" in whether they preferred annexation to Daly City, incorporation becoming a legal city or to remain the way it is—unincorporated.

"As a community, we're not asking to avoid paying taxes," Ickler said.

He said LAFCO could reverse its previous action in not allowing a community election and the citizens of unincorporated Broadmoor-Colma could have its "right to vote."

In the meantime, residents have been urged, through leaflet and loudspeaker, to attend Mon-

Jeff High Pay Package OK Seen

Approval by Jefferson High School District trustees of a $312,000 salary increase-benefits package for employes is expected this month, probably at the September 16 meeting of the board.

The package, representing pay boosts ranging from five to 7.5 per cent, plus an increase in the value of the district's dental plan, has received a green-light from the Negotiating Council.

It needs only board ratification now.

The proposal will not affect the tax rate, with the money to come from the undistributed reserve, since the district's rate was established last month.

At first there were indications that no increases would be given this year, because of a financial crisis faced by districts throughout the state.

However, money has since became available, primarily as a result of increased assessed valuation.

Assessment Of Uniform Experiment

There were many outcries from the general public last year when the South San Francisco Police Department announced they were going to experiment with a new police uniform. It was argued that this would endanger the police officer and some have gone as far as to call it a "liberal plot" to undermine the police department.

Recently the SSF police department concluded it look at a possible new look for their officers. Along with advantages, the report also points out some disadvantages with the nine' month survey uncovered.

Opponents argued that no one would be able to identify an officer in a business suit. Concerning identification, the report does list it as a matter of concern. The report states: "Upon interviewing these citizens, it became apparent that many of

Cutting, Scathing Remarks

San Bruno Cab Debate

By BOB PETERSON

An appeal on a denial of a taxicab permit within the city of San Bruno Monday was held over at the request of the applicant.

But the opposition got in their licks, too.

Milton W. Renke, of 375 Arroyo Dr., South San Francisco, is appealing a denial of a taxicab permit request he put before the council on July 28. The item was deferred to the Augsut 11 meeting, then denied.

Last night councilmen informed the audience appearing for the hearing that a telephone request had been receivd from Henke attorney to hold over the hearing since he would be unable to attend.

This they decided to do. However, the councilmen also felt they should open the hearing and let those who came before the council speak their piece.

The result was some scathing remarks as to the desirability of the applicant's operation.

Joseph Gilleo, operator of San Bruno's Yellow Cab service, presently the only one in the city, told the councilmen he objected to the fact Henke made a statement that Yellow Cab could not service all the calls.

A man identifying himself as John H. Brook, operations manager of the Yellow Cabs of San Francisco and selected Peninsula cities, was more cutting.

Brook related two incidents to the councilmen in which he asserted passengers were overcharged.

According to Brook, the cabs operated by Henke because they were painted yellow, were believed to belong to the outfit in which Brook is associatd.

Another man, affiliated with the cab driver's union, told the councilmen that Henke's drivers do not belong to any union, and "are . . . in violation of all the rules that govern the operation of cabs."

And the operator of the Pacifica Cab Company, whose cabs also are painted yellow, said "I have to keep going around defending myself from this man."

Police Chief Russell J. Cunningham was asked his opinion. He said he had no reason to believe the various incidents related by the councilmen were unreliable. However, he reiteratd the reasons he had supported denial of the permit originally was because he felt the present cab company was giving adequate service and maintaining good operatioal cabs.

D.C. Closes Hearing On Rezone Bid

The public hearing on rezoning of three parcels of land adjacent of Gellert Boulevard from R-3 and C-1 to C-1 and C-2 was closed Monday.

Councilman Michael DeBernardi, whose son is expected to operate a service station and car wash on a portion of the area, abstained from the voting.

The rezoning is in compliance with the new General Plan, the council was earlier informed.

In other action Monday, the council:

—Continued for 30 days (until October 13) the public hearing into the declaration of a public nusiance at 855 Lausanne Avenue in order to allow the owner additional time to complete certain repairs to a downstairs bathroom.

—Continued for 30 days any action on John Swanson's request for a variance to permit construction of additional office space with less than required parking at the Westlake Bowl.

First San Bruno Teen Center Taking Shape

The first of (hopefully) several teen centers for San Bruno soon will be taking shape in the civil defense storage building on Earl Aveaue, near Sneath Lane and Skyline Boulevard.

Councilmen Monday awarded a $9,460 contract to the John Collicotte Company for renovation of the building.

In awarding the contract, the councilmen also stipulated that some of the inside painting be done by those teenagers who will be using the center. As Councilman George Corey put it, "This is youth involvement. It is their center."

When the city councilmen first authorized a call for bids on the renovation, Corey was quick to point out that the effort is "a pilot program" of a "teen center idea" for the city.

In other bid awards, the councilmen okayed a low bid of $20,744 for construction of 600 feet of 8-inch cast iron and 8-inch of vitrified clay sewer lines and four manholes at the Crestmoor Park number seven outfall sewer relocation to the O.K. Construction Company.

The councilmen also accepted easements from Glen Rasmussen 1646 Claremont Dr., and William O'Connor, 1650 Claremont Dr., in connection with the sewer installation.

O.K. Construction Company also was low bidder, at $3,419, for construction of 330 lineal feet of 12-inch corrugated metal pipe, including two catch basins on the city's tank number 3 drain line.

The J. M. Bicher Company was awarded a contract for $5,955 to drill four test holes for a city water well.

Bruno OK's Dirt Hauling

Two dirt hauling items on Monday's San Bruno city council agenda were lumped into one category and the Piombo Construction Company was left with the choice of whether to haul it away.

Councilmen included a request of the San Bruno school board to reconsider denial of a previous application for hauling dirt from the Carl Sandburg School with that of a dirt hauling request of Piombo which was deferred from the August 25 meeting.

The school hauling situation involves 43,000 yards of earth. Piombo's deferred request involves the movement of 700,000 tons of dirt from above Skyline Boulevard to the airport.

A Piombo representative indicated to the councilmen that the construction company had a permit to haul the 700,000 tons through South San Francisco, but said he didn't think he could get another permit to haul the additional 43,000 yards through that city. He asked for another route through San Bruno.

Councilman Maurace Hamilton made the motion that stipulated the council would grant a hauling permit on condition Piombo use a designated route —from Sneath Lane to Huntington Avenue then north through South San Francisco—and that they haul both the 43,000 yards and 700,000 tons along this route.

Other stipulations were that the permit be good for six months, that Piombo post a bond, that there be a maximum of 30 trucks on the route and that Piombo work with the San Bruno police to set up a private patrol to control speeding trucks along the route.

Storm Drain Price Hiked In South S.F.

The estimated cost of construction of storm drain pipes and necessary appurtenances on Linden Avenue in South San Francisco has gone up from $33,000 to $50,000. The city is now advertising for bids.

"The $33,000 is the amount of the preliminary estimate made some two years ago," said Louis Goss, director of public works. "The $50,000 is a more detailed estimate."

Before adopting the ten resolutions setting up the Armour-Linden storm drain assessment district, councilmen also were told the original estimate didn't take into consideration the "complications" of the area.

According to Goss, access will have to be made from the low side of the drain, meaning workers will have to back into the area.

Ken Jones, an attorney specializing in assessments with the San Mateo firm of Wilson, Jones, Morton and Lynch, told the councilmen the upped estimate also is due in part more to an increase in the financial market than the construction market.

Goss said the $50,000 also includes incidental costs, including attorney fees, engineering etc. "Bids will be received October 1," said Goss, "and a public hearing on the project will be held before the city council on October 6."

The city's cost of the project will be approximately half. Property owners will be able to pay their assessed amounts either in cash or on a 15-year installment.

Match Fire Guts Bedroom

South San Francisco firemen blamed children playing with matches for a fire that caused an estimated $5,000 damage to a Sierra Highlands home Monday.

A fire department spokesman said the 4:47 p.m. blaze started in the children's bedroom of Mrs. Carlos Gavidia's residence, at 819 Camaritus Circle.

The bedroom was gutted and furnishings destroyed. Smoke damage was noted throughout the three-bedroom, single-story home, firemen said.

S.S.F. Police Uniform 'Experiment' Is Assessed

them were receptive to the proposal to modify the police uniform. The prime concern for them, however, was the problem of identifying the officer in time of emergency. In view of this concern, the interviews were evaluated to determine if the officer was readily identified as an officer during the times of stress or emergency.

"In the overwhelming percentage of cases involving injury, accidents, assaults, prowlers, or sick calls, the persons involved were unaware of the color, style or uniform equipment worn by the officer," the report stated.

The survey had been conducted over a nine-month period, in which officer Joe Simpson, wearing his duds, worked three months day shift, three nights, and three swing.

Another officer then followed up by interviewing all those people with which Simpson came into contact who were South San Francisco residents. Most of his contacts were made with victims or complainants (44 per cent), while the others were spread between witnesses, traffic stops and arrests.

Concerning the recognition of the change in the uniform, 73 per cent of the persons interviewed who had previous personal contact with officers noticed the change while 27 percent did not. Of those persons who had no prior police officer contact, 77 per cent noticed the change, while 23 did not.

Concerning the ability to identify the officer as a policeman, 24 per cent would identify Simpson as a police officer on the strength of the uniform alone; 40 per cent said they could not recognize Simpson as a police officer.

However, when the person saw Simpson in a police vehicle, or with another officer or from personal knowledge, 60 per cent said they could identify him.

Concerning reaction to the uniform, 46 per cent liked the uniform, 20 per cent did not, and 34 per cent didn't have an opinion, didn't recall or had reservation regarding its use and effectiveness.

Police Chief John Fabbri stressed that the uniform is going to be modified again, and another test period given to the suit.

"Some deficiences have been found," the chief admitted but added that "so far the experiment has been an immeasureable success."

The changes will be directed to increasing the comfort to the officers who have been handcuffed with bulky uniforms which have remained unchanged for years.

D.C. Hears Rezone Bid

Mayor Lycett noted the matter has been continued since June 12 and the city must have "some sort of resolvement on this."

—Authorized fire department to go to bids on an 85-foot aerial ladder truck and a 1,250-gallon-per-minute pumper. Both items have already been budgeted.

—Mayor Lycett informed his fellow councilmen concerning an amendment to section 2075.1 of the Education Code which shelves AB 272 for an additional two years—until July 1, 1973. Without this amendment, AB 272 would become law on July 1, 1971.

Dismissal Denied

Neilson Must Stand Trial On Sex, Murder Charges

Robert D. Nielson Jr. must stand trial on September 29 on charges that he murdered and sexually molested 3-year-old Yvonne Santino in San Bruno on July 1.

Superior Court Judge Allison M. Rouse agreed on Friday that while the evidence against Nielson is circumstantial it is sufficient to hold him for trial.

In denying a motion of Neilson's attorney, Gerald Schneider, that murder and sexual assault charges be dismissed because insufficient evidence was presented at a municipal court preliminary hearing, Judge Rouse said, "We can conclude from the evidence homicide and sexual assault was involved and the defendent may have done it."

Schneider argued that there was complete absence of signs of a struggle and that a firecaptain had testified that Nielson's demeanor was completely compatible with an accidential drowning.

He explained that Nileson gave conflicting stories to the police at first because he did not want the girl's mother, whom he later married to know that he had left the child for even a short time when he was supposed to be babysitting.

Nielson is scheduled to go on trial before Superior Court Judge J. A. Branson on September 29.

New Concepts For Speech Class in S.S.F.

The public speaking class of South San Francisco Evening High School given at 7 p.m. each Wednesday starting September 10 in room C 27 will embrace some new concepts that were explored in the class last spring.

Toastmaster methods for both men and women, high school drop-outs, diploma or enrichment students, have proved in a single semester to be very helpful in developing abilities in communication. Better understanding of contemporary problems is one of the course objectives.

Practice in speech construction, idea development, and delivery can be helpful in many occupations.

The instructor will be William Simonson of San Bruno who pioneered the first public speaking class in El Cerrito, for the UC Extension Division which developed into the first community forum there. Simonson is presently director of the Career Guidance Foundation.

Couple Robs Pacifican, 74 Of Cash, Car

A 74-year-old Pacifica man was robbed of money and his car by two drinking companions early Thursday, according to Pacifica police.

The victim was Richard Persich of 1522 Francisco Boulevard, an apartment above a bar, where he apparently had met and began drinking with the suspects—a man and a woman in their early twenties, police said.

When the bar closed, the trio went up to Persich's apartment police related, for another drink.

Once up there, however, the young couple assertedly threatened the elderly man with bodily harm if he did not turn over the keys to his 1969 automobile.

One of the suspects held him, while the other took the keys to the car, a foreign-made compact.

They grabbed the man by the shirt, ripping off buttons, Persich told police, before fleeing with $48 in cash, a social security check for $160, a bottle of Scotch and the car.

Struggle For Orphans In Court

A battle is shaping up in Superior Court for guardianship of four South San Francisco youngsters orphaned July 30 when their mother dropped dead following a traffic mishap.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Rygiewicz of Milwaukee, Wis., grandparents of the youngsters, 6-year-old twins Christian and Michael Gains, their brother, Lawrence, 5, and Londa, 4, filed a petition for guardianship of the children.

The children were left orphans when their Caucasian mother, Mrs. Marcia D. Gains, 31, who was a nurse, collapsed and died of a ruptured heart after her car ran off the road and crashed into the side of a house in South San Francisco. Mrs. Gains was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ryjiewicz.

Mrs. Gaines' Negro husband, Laurence, died April 30, 1965, in San Francisco.

Yesterday, another petition was filed in Superior Court by attorney Gerald Ragan on behalf of the children's Negro uncle, Army Sgt. Benjamin Gaines, who is seeking guardianship on the contention that he has had a closer relationship to the family than did the Rygiewiczs.

Ragan said that Gaines, a 17-year Army veteran, presently is stationed in Virginia, but is seeking a transfer to the West Coast. He has two children of his own.

Superior Judge James T. O'Keefe Friday scheduled a hearing on the opposing petitions for September 19 at 9 a.m.

New Assistant D.A. Named In D.C. Office

Stennett M. Sheppard, district attorney of Trinity County for a total of 12½ years, joins the staff of San Mateo County District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson October 1 as a deputy district attorney.

Soreson said Sheppard will fill one of the vacancies created by resignations and additional positions authorized after the start of the fiscal year.

Sheppard, 56, was district attorney and county counsel, a one-man office, in Trinity County from 1949 to 1959, when he quit to enter private practice. He again was elected district attorney in 1967 and is in the post at the present time.

Sorenson said that Sheppard, a graduate of Stanford University and of Boalt Hall, University of California, and his wife, Johnnie, are anxious to return to the Bay Area. Sheppard will be assigned to the Daly City branch of the district attorney's office in the Northern Municipal Court District.

Four other appointments made recently to fill positions on his staff were also announced by Sorenson. They are:

Dick Bennett, Foster City, and Joseph Hughes, Burlingame, both assigned to Southern District Municipal Court; Stanley Poling, Burlingame, assigned to Northern District Municipal Court, and Charles Porter, San Bruno, assigned to Central District Municipal Court.

Information Center Opens

South San Francisco Information Center has opened its doors at 224 Lux Avenue.

The program is federally funded under Economic Opportunity Commission and has been formed for the help of ethnic minorities and low income families. The target area will be South San Francisco and San Bruno.

'Hit and Run'

Woman, 49, Dies On Foggy Skyline

A 49-year-old San Francisco woman was struck on the fog shrouded Skyline Boulevard south of the Westmoor Avenue turnoff in Daly City Wednesday, by a hit-run driver and then run over by four other cars, the Highway Patrol reported

Sgt. Tom Montague reported that Mary Foulger of 2346 Forty-second Avenue, San Francisco, was apparently decapitated by the first auto, which either threw her or carried her 170-feet, and then had her left leg torn off as another vehicle passed over her.

Officers said that the woman was identified through costume jewelry and clothing by her mother, Mrs. Mabel Martin, with whom she lived. Mrs. Martin said her daughter had left home around 9 p.m., and she could give no explanation what the victim was doing on the Skyline road.

One patrolman theorized the woman may have been hitchhiking when struck by the hit-run driver, who apparently panicked and drove on.

One of the other drivers, Mrs. Sylvia Wheatley of 860 Crespi Drive, Pacifica, said she observed the body lying in the fast, southbound lane.

Officers said the only clue to the identity of the hit-run auto was a strip of chrome and some skid marks. They said the accident scene was being checked in daylight today, however, in an attempt to obtain more evidence.

According to officers, the woman was dressed in dark clothing when struck.

200 Homes Ready For Cable TV

Vista Grande Cablevision spokesmen informed the Daly City council Sept. 30 that within the next three months some 200 homes in the School Street area of the city would be subscribing to their services.

And the entire city-wide cable television service would be completed within 18 months, according to Vista Grande company manager Robert Coyle.

Once installed, the revolutionary system—claimed to be the most advanced in the entire nation—will provide 20 channels ghost-free pure television, both black and white and color, Coyle explained.

The company has its sights set for completion of the School Street area within 60 days, but equipment arrival delays may postpone this optimistic target date up to two weeks.

Construction superintendent Troy Lee said the company could roll along at 80-85 poles a day when equipment is available. He noted that talks with PG&E and the Pacific Telephone Company were progressing smoothly and that the company already has secured clearance from both utilities for lines between School Street and the "head-in" site (receiver tower near Pacifica).

Next in line for the cable is the Southern Hills - Bayshore-East Daly City sections of the city. Reception is considered poorest in those areas.

Daly City has several problems that impede television reception, Coyle noted, including [illegible]ography and electrical in[illegible]ce.

[illegible]ype of system being in[illegible]—primarily underground—is using specialy constructed equipment aimed at improving reception in these problem areas, Coyle said.

Landscaping Job Awarded

A bid of $35,842.38 by the firm of Collishaw Sprinkler Company of Santa Clara, won the contract to do landscape development work at the intersection of Junipero Serra and Hickey Boulevard in South San Francisco.

City councilman awarded the contract on the recommendation of landscape specialist John Hoffman.

Work will include construction of an ornamental entrance sign and complete landscape development of traffic islands and roadsides of the intersection.

D.C. Fire Destroys Beds and Clothing

Fire that authorities think was started when an incense stick ignited some paper in the third-floor bedroom of a Daly City home caused an estimated $1,500 damage yesterday, destroying three beds and some children's clothing.

A fire department spokesman said the three-story home at 35 Shakespeare Street, Daly City, is occupied by Mrs. Virginia Doyle and twelve children.

The blaze was confined to the one room, with little damage to the structure itself—walls were only smoked up and paint was somewhat blistered, a fireman said.

Michael Bluthardt, 14-year-old son of Mrs. Dayle, turned in the alarm, telling firemen the house was on fire, and two engines and a ladder company were dispatched to the residence.

However, a fire official noted, only minutes later, Amy Bluthardt, Michael's sister, called to say the alarm was false; that her brother had phoned it in erroneously.

Units were so advised and had just started back to their stations when Machael called again to say there was a fire.

"We responded and extinguished the fire," the fire spokesman said.

Firemen said the 2:43 p.m. fire appeared to have been started when a stick of incense was placed in an ashtray, with paper in the tray igniting.

Purse Stolen In Daylight

A Daly City housewife lost her purse containing some $131 to a pair of white youths in daylight Wednesday at the corner of Knowles and Miriam streets.

Mrs. Irla Chico was walking along Knowles at 2:45 p.m. when the youths ran up, grabbed her purse and fled on foot. The purse was later found in the area.

LOITERING

Daly City is taking a long hard look at loitering in the community and has instructed city attorney Albert Polonsky to study Pacifica's new loitering law and how it might be used here.

RICHARD HART and Miss Margaret Riggs have received administrative promotions at Daly City's Westmoor High School. (Post Photo)

Promotions Announced for 2 In Jefferson High District

The recent elevation of Clay Kollmann to principal of Westmoor High School in Daly City has resulted in the advancement of two other Jefferson High School District administrators.

Miss Margaret Riggs was promoted by district trustees to vice-principal of Westmoor, while Richard Hart or Terra Nova, was named to replace Miss Riggs as assistant principal for guidance at Westmoor.

Miss Riggs has been in the district and at Westmoor since 1957, when she came from Escalon, where she had taught three years. Her first teaching post was in the Kern Union High School District.

She came to Westmoor as Dean of Girls, later became assistant principal of guidance, a post she has held since 1964.

Miss Riggs, who is the outgoing president of the Association of Jefferson Administrators, was graduated from the University of the Pacific in Stockton, where whe obtained both her AB and master's degrees. She majored in English and speech and later completed graduate work in guidance and counseling.

Hart, who obtained degrees in Boston, Mass., came to the district in 1957 as a Westmoor mathematics instructor.

Coming from Cloverdale, Hart had previously taught in Massachusetts and New Hampshire schools, moving to California in 1965.

In 1960, Hart became a counselor at Westmoor. He later was appointed director of student activities (1961) and attendance supervisor (1962), before moving to Terra Nova High, Pacifica, (1967) in the same capacities.

District Supt. Edward D. Morgan declared that the trustees have given "Westmoor a truly outstanding administrative team."

He said the move "reunites three people who have given long service to the district."

Dredging Bids Asked By S.S.F.

South San Francisco councilmen authorized a call for bids for rental of dragline equipment for dredging sand and silt from Colma Creek and tributaries.

It is an annual project. The county pays one - third of the costs. Generally two draglines are used; a large one for Colma Creek and a smaller one for the tributaries.

Bryant Testimonial

Daly City Allows Gymnasium Use

A "misunderstanding" was blamed for city manager David Rowe's denial recently of a request to use the War Memorial building's gymnasium to stage a testimonial dinner for the Rev. Howard Bryant.

The denial, Rowe informed the Daly City Council Sept. 2 during a study session, was considered by him to be consistent with established policies for not using the gym for testimonial dinners of any sort.

(Several teen groups, however, use the gym for dances during the year with the Jefferson Teen Club scheduled to hold a dance there this fall. The city also holds its annual employes award dinners at the gym, it was learned.)

But after learning that a member of his city staff, who is also working on the testimonial banquet, had committed the use of the building, Rowe changed his mind and approved the use of the gym.

He informed the council that this "misunderstanding" coupled with the fact that the gym's floor was scheduled for resurfacing in the fall, was responsible for his change of heart.

Councilman Edward J. Dennis noted that Bryant had worked "very hard" for the city, helping youths get summer employment, establishing a well-baby clinic and many other services.

Dennis said he was glad to see the misunderstanding had been resolved.

Bryant will soon leave his post as director of the Daly City Information and Referral Center to accept a full scholarship at the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

He said his resignation would not divorce him completely from community activities and further stated he would continue on as pastor of the Second Baptist Church in Daly City.

"It has been my desire for many years to attend the seminary, but frankly I could never afford it.

"The ministry is my real calling and I feel I can better serve mankind and this community by developing my full potential as a clergyman," Bryant told The Post last week.

Spindrift Players' Member Campaign Nears an End

The 1969-70 Pacifica Spindrift Players' season ticket drive will end on September 15. This will be the last chance for subscribers to obtain tickets for the season all at once.

The season is to include "Portrait in Black," a mystery suspense drama by Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts in October, followed by "Barnaby" in December, Edward Albees "A Delicate Balance" in March, and Neil Simon's comedy, "The Odd Couple" in May.

In addition and free only to season ticket subscribers is a performance by ACT — the American Conservatory Theatre.

Individual play tickets will go on sale later, but it is doubtful if persons will be able to attend the ACT performance unless they have purchased the season ticket in advance.

The date and time of this special performance will be announced, but should not be confused by ACT's regular San Francisco season.

The cost of five shows for the price of four is $8, 5 and $3 for adults, high school students, and elementary school students, respectively, and sales are reported to be brisk.

Tickets may be purchased at any of the following field ticket agencies: Kent Cleaners in Pacifica Manor, Boutique Pot Pourri in Sharp Park, Linda Mar Florist in Linda Mar, Periwinkle Art Gallery on Pedro Point, the Park, Beach and Recreation Department at City Hall, Pacifica or any Pacifica bank. The San Bruno outlet is Ewald Travel Service.

Or, tickets will be delivered by calling 359-5915.

Mrs. Guthrie urged members to attend to hear projects for the coming year.

Southern California Trip For Newlywed Couple

Honeymooning in Los Angeles and San Diego are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fear (Karen Ringue) who were married Saturday at All Souls Church in South San Francisco. White gladioli banked the altar for the 2 p.m. ceremony which was followed by a sitdown dinner at the Italian American Social Club in San Francisco.

Karen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Ringue of South San Francisco, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a satin gown with beaded lace appliques on the bodice sleeves, and skirt front. The Empire design featured a standup collar, a small bow in front, and a detachable train. A crown of rosebuds caught her veil and she carried white carnations and orchids.

When she departed on her wedding trip, the new matron had changed to a Navy blue suit with a white hat and red and Navy shoes and handbag.

Mrs. Wayne Rocca, her sister's matron of honor, wore a floor length Empire dress of aqua crepe banded at the waistline with dark aqua satin and styled with ruffles at the neckline and wrist. A rose crown caught her dark aqua veil and she carried blue carnations surrounded by green net with green and blue streamers.

The same dresses were worn by the bridesmaids, Donna Eli, Vickie Velasco, Regina Smolik, and Kerry Kennedy. They carried blue carnations surrounded with blue net and blue streamers.

Rochelle Ringue, junior bridesmaid for her sister, also wore aqua crepe and carried blue carnations. Billy Rocca, nephew of the bride, carried the rings.

Wayne Rocca stood as best man for Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Minick of San Carlos. Guests were escorted to their seats by Ken Kennedy, John Pascone, Jack Doss, and Steve Minick, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Ringue took her place in the family pew in a citron two-piece silk suit with a light mink collar. She added a hat of matching silk and green patent shoes and handbag. Mrs. Minick wore a lavneder ensemble trimmed in green and blue crepe and added a hat of white feathers. Both mothers pinned on white orchids.

The new Mrs. Fear attended Mercy High School in Burlingame. Her husband has two sister, Mrs. Ken Kennedy and Loran Fear.

The couple will live in South San Francisco.

NELL NORTON

(Sugar 'n Spice)

Good morning, good cooks.

I'm sure other columnists are blessed with good and generous readers but I know none of them are as fortunate as I am in my readership. You good cooks are so kind in responding to receipe requests and I am most grateful.

This week's column will start off with a recipe from Mrs. Nick Agnish who lives at 1292 Edgewood Way, South San Francisco. Mrs. Agnish responded to a reader's request for a corn bread recipe with this tasty treat.

QUICK CORN BREAD

- ¾ cups corn meal
- 1¼ cups flour
- ¼ cup sugar
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon melted shortening

In a large mixing bowl sift together the one and one-fourths cups flour, one-fourth cup sugar, three teaspoons baking powder and half teaspoon salt. Add the three-fourths cup corn meal. Combine the cup of milk and the egg, blend well with a fork and add to the dry ingredients. Mix. Add the tablespoon melted shortening.

Pour into a well-greased 8-inch baking pan. Bake three-fourths cup corn meal. Combine the cup of milk and the egg, blend well with a fork and add to the dry ingredients. Mix. Add the tablespoon melted shortening.

Pour into a well-greased 8-inch baking pan. Bake in pre-heated 425-degree oven about 20 minutes.

For morning coffee you may sprinkle cinnamon and sugar on top before baking

The sugar and cinnamon are delicious on the bread. Another bonus is that this corn bread can be reheated deliciously. Just place any leftovers in the top of a double boiler, sprinkle VERY lightly with water, cover and heat over boiling water.

COOKING CLUE: Melt the shortening in the baking pan in which you plan to bake the bread. Put a little extra shortening in and put it in the hot oven. When it's melted, stir it around so the pan is coated then pour off the tablespoon of shortening and add it to the corn bread. Then just pour it into the hot and greased pan and return it to the oven.

Since we are still thinking about quick cakes I want to recommend this very quick and tasty dessert. It has a most imposing name and while I ratherdoubt that Her Majesty ever pops down to the royal kitchens for a go at baking, this cake is surely fit for a queen.

QUEEN ELIZABETH CAKE

- 1 cup chopped dates
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 cup sugar
- ¼ cup butter
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1¼ cups sifted flour
- One-third teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- One-third cup pecans

Pour the cup of boiling water over the cup of chopped dates, add the teaspoon baking soda and let stand while you mix and fix the rest of the cake.

Cream the cup of sugar and the one-fourth cup butter, add the egg and teaspoon vanilla. Sift together the one and one-fourth cups flour, one-third teaspoon salt and teaspoon baking powder. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with the liquid mixture. Stir in the one-third cup chopped pecans and pour into a well-greased and lightly floured pan 8x10x2 inches. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Then spread with the following topping.

TOPPING

- 5 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 5 tablespoons evaporated milk
- Dash of salt
- 1 cup shredded coconut

Combine the five tablespoons each brown sugar and milk in a small sauce pan, add the two tablespoons butter and dash of salt. Blend and boil for 3 minutes. Remove from heat and add the cup of coconut.

NOTE: Neither topping nor cake have to cool before topping is spread on cake.

Dear, dear, while I was away the gremlins got into our quick bread recipes. Here are the corrected versions.

DATE QUICK BREAD

- 11 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 cup quick oats, uncooked
- ½ cup melted shortening
- 2 eggs, beaten
- ½ cup milk
- 1 cup chopped dates
- ½ cup nuts

Sift the one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking power, half teaspoon soda and half cup sugar into a bowl. Stir in the one cup quick oats and add the half cup liquid shortening, two beaten eggs, half cup milk, one cup dates and half cup chopped nuts. Stir only to moisten ingredients. Pour into well-greased loaf pan (1 pound size) and bake in 350-degree oven about one hour. For easy slicing: cool bread, wrap and store one day before using.

ORANGE DATE BREAD

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 unbeaten egg
- Rind of one medium orange (1 to 2 tablespoons)
- Juice of one orange and enough boiling water to measure 1 cup
- 1 cup dates, cut fine
- ½ cup nuts chopped

Sift together the two cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder, half teaspoon each soda and salt. Blend together the two tablespoons butter and cup of sugar. Add the unbeaten egg and beat well. Combine the juice and hot water to make one cup liquid, and add alternately with the sifted dry ingredients to the creamed mixture, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Blend well after each addition. Stir in the cup of dates and half cup nuts and the grated orange rind.

Turn into 9x5x3-inch loaf pan, well-greased on bottom and bake in 350-degree oven 50 to 60 minutes. Cool before slicing.

Donna Louise Kelleher Wed To Scott Gordon Spackman

Millbrae is the first home of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Gordon Spackman (Donna Louise Kelleher) who were married at St. Robert's Catholic Church in San Bruno by the Rev. John F. Monagle.

After a reception at the South San Francisco Elks' Club, the couple left for a honeymoon in southern California.

Donna, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Kelleher of San Bruno, had Sandy Sheehan as her maid of honor and Mrs. Robert Hinkle, her sister, as matron of honor.

The bridesmaids included Alexis MacMinn, Mrs. John Holmes, Sanja Sidwell, Mrs. Randall Steele and Maureen Kelleher, sister of the bride. Kristin Hinkle was the flower girl for her aunt.

Steve Smith fulfilled the duties of best man for Scott, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil L. Packman of Millbrae. Ushers were Robert Hinkle, Rob Nichole, Tom Ratzlaff, Alvin Molten, Jeff Scranton and Darrell Spackman, brother of the bridegroom.

THE SCOTT SPACKMANS (Donna Kelleher)

THE HARRY PFITZERS (Olivia Anderson)

Olivia Anderson, Harry Pfitzer Married in Colma

The Broadmoor Church of the Nazarene in Colma was the setting for the recent marriage of Olivia Jane Anderson and Harry John Pfitzer.

After their honeymoon in Santa Cruz, they are living in Colma.

Olivia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver K. Anderson of Colma, wore a peau de soie gown with a floor-length train appliqued in Chantilly lace. A lace and seed pearl cap caught her chapel veil.

Yvonne Abba of South Boston, Va., formerly of Daly City, was her sole attendant, and Joseph Pfitzer was his brother's best man. Both are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Pfitzer of Daly City. Larry Anderson, brother of the bride, ushered.

The couple both attended Westmoor High School.

'Freewheelers Are Truly Lifesavers'

"Freewheelres are truly lifesavers," Mrs. Michael L. Arevalo of South San Francisco declared this week in issuing an appeal for new volunteers to join the American Cancer Society's transportation corps.

Mrs. Arevalo, who has served as Freewheelers' chairman in the North County area for the past two years, announced her resignation from the post, "because of family commitments," and at the same time called for additional help to "carry on a humanitarian and personally rewarding" community service.

"The volunteer corps is unable to fill current requests for driving North County cancer patients to and from treatment centers," she said. "Several of the patients have daily appointment schedules at Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame or Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco — the closest facilities available for many types of cancer therapy.

"Our dedicated drivers have given hundreds of hours to assuring that these patients from the San Bruno-South San Francisco area will meet their lifesaving treatment programs, but the present crew just can't met all the requests, and we have been using taxi service in some cases," Mrs. Arevalo added.

The retiring chairman suggested that housewives whose children are back in school with the opening of the fall term, and retired "senior citizens," might find a few hours a week to help the motor pool.

Assignments and information about the Freewheelers' work will be handled by the San Mateo County ACS Branch office, 1517 South B Street, San Mateo, until a successor is named to the North County transportation scheduling post.

Betrothal Announced At Dinner

A dinner at The Moonraker restaurant in Pacifica was the occasion for the Rev. and Mrs. Stewart D. Millon of Millbrae to announce the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne Dee Millon, to Bruce Philip Trites. The couple will be married on November 23 at Christ Lutheran Church in Burlingame where Suzanne's father is the pastor.

Suzanne is a graduate of Peninsula High School and was a teacher's aide there for a year.

Bruce is the son of John Trites of San Mateo and Mrs. Helen Trites of San Bruno. A graduate of Capuchino High School, he has recently been discharged from the Army where he spent a year in Vietnam and was awarded the Purple Heart for injury incurred in action.

Suzanne has asked her sister, Mrs. Daniel McGrath of Burlingame, to be her matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Peggy Koijane of Burlingame and Carol Morton and Vickie Mustard of Vallejo.

Bill Trites of San Bruno will be his brother's best man. Guests will be seated by Bill Surtees of San Bruno, Daniel McGrath of Burlingame, and Caesar Ramos and Earl Bantilan of San Francisco.

George F. Nevins of Vallejo will give the bride away as the representative of her father who will conduct the ceremony. Suzanne will have her cousins, Jack Hersey and Anna Hersey of Richmond, as ring bearer and junior bridesmaid. The second ring will be carried by Bruce's younger brother, Ricky, and his two sisters, Valerie and Daryll will also be junior bridesmaids. Erin McAdam of Burlingame will be the flower girl.

Mr. and Mrs. William Allen Blair Jr. were married recently at Our Lady of Mercy Church in Daly City. The bride is the former Clara Pardo Silva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Silva. She asked Georgia Blair to be her maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Gladys Silva, Laura Wong, and Judy Coughlin. William, son of the senior William Blairs, had Daniel Soloman as his best man, and ushers were Dale Smith, Kendrick Kresse, and Albert Silva.

D.C. Kiwanis Club Invites Educators to Next Meeting

Skyline College president Philip Garlington, Sr., is to be the September 16 speaker for the Kiwanis Club of Daly City-Colma, secretary Herb Cahn revealed this week.

The club will meet at the Flaming Pit restaurant at the Serramonte Shopping Center at noon.

Additionally, invitations have been extended to Dr. Robert Bush, new principal of Daly City's Jefferson High School, and Clayton Kollmann, recently named principal of Westmoor High School, also in Daly City.

Cahn pointed out that one of the principal "objectives of Kiwanis Clubs is performing services for the youth of the community in which they are located."

He said the local club's projects already have included sponsorship of a junior baseball team, participating in the Student Exchange Program and presentations to the Burlingame School for the Deaf and Thornton High School, in addition to a continuous junior Kiwanian program.

Cahn said student leaders of the two Daly City high schools are being invited to attend with their principals.

Sharing a toast after their wedding on Sunday at St. Stephen's Church are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Zuardo (Christine Catalano). The bride, daughter of Mrs. Peter Panella and Frank Catalano, is a teacher at El Camino High School in South San Francisco. Louis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Zuardo, is also on the El Camino faculty and coaches baseball.

Members of the committee in charge of the annual Wine-Cheese Celebration of the Marianist Assistance Fund of Riordan High School are predicting San Francisco will be bathed in balmy September sunshine Sunday afternoon when the early autumn event is held in the patio and courtyard of the high school.

According to Mrs. Albert Bucci, publicity chairman for the program, each year the board members of the Marianist Assistance Fund sponsor this event with ever increasing success and bludgeoning attendance figures.

Samuele Sebastiani and Charles Krug will present a selection of wines from their renown cellars and the Marin' French Cheese Company will provide various cheeses for the approval and enjoyment of celebration guests.

A silent auction is also planned for the afternoon and donations of specialty items for the sale are being collected by auction chairman and co-chairman Mrs. Vincent Murphy and Mrs. Vern Box. Persons wishing to contribute may do so by calling one of the chairmen at 755-0178 or 755-0491.

Mrs. Bucci explained that the Marianist Assistance Fund aids the members of the order with financial assistance to pursue studies leading to master and doctorate degrees in the field of education.

The celebration, which runs from 2 to 5 p.m., is open to friends and members of the fund group without charge. Donations may be made to the Brothers of Mary Education Fund. Anyone wishing more information may contact the general chairman, Mrs. Francis Bernie, by telephoning her at 992-3261.

Folk Guitar for Adults

The Jefferson Union High School District's Adult Division is offering a new course in folk guitar, a course designed to introduce adults to the basic chords and basic sturms in playing the guitar.

Those adults interested in achieving an introductory knowledge of guitar playing, or those who wish to expand their present knowledge of guitar playing, will find this course extremely helpful in achieving such mastery school officials said.

Age in learning to play the guitar is no factor. Anyone who would sincerely enjoy playing this instrument will find that he should be able to do so within a reasonably short time.

The class will be conducted by Miss Ungar, who formerly taught guitar in the Jefferson Union High School District, and who is only recently returned from New York, where she has completed several musical taping engageents.

Miss Ungar is also well-known in the Bay Area for her many presentations in the world of music, and, specifically, in the use of the folk guitar for accompaniment, featuring Yiddish and Israeli folk songs.

S.S.F. Classes

Guitar classes for 12-17 year old beginners and intermediates will be offered again this Fall by the South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department.

The beginners will meet from 6 to 7 p.m. and the intermediate from 7:10 to 8:10 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursdan evenings for a 10-week session at Magnolia Recreation Center.

The first of the 20 classes will be held September 23.

Pacifica Jaycees Honor 77

The 77 new teachers of the Laguna Salada School District were hosted by the Pacifica Jaycees at the fifth Annual Welcome Teachers Luncheon.

The luncheon was hled at the Vallemar School and was made possible through the support and contribution of Challenge Developmemts, Inc.

The Jaycees were responsible for organizing and conducting the program, according to Jaycee chairman and master of cermonies, Jerry Kruse.

The luncheon speakers were Bob Toole, director of the Park, Beach and Recreation Department; Chet Gdyck of Challenge Developments, and Ray Willard, a resident of Rockaway Beach.

Toole talked of the recreation departments function in the community.

Gdyck told a story with a thought provoking moral. He also talked of the construction in the community and mentioned the opening of some new model homes in Park Pacifica.

A Sun-Flavored Beer Party Featuring Spareribs and Beef Burgers

Everybody talks about the weather, and adults can be the somebody who does something about it! Dust off that patio and prepare a beer party — California style — a fun-flavored party theme that features beer as an ingredient in your cookery — and bottles, cans or a keg of your favorite to accompany it.

Your beer party California style just may be an excuse to have a clan of friends over — or the background setting for a special occasion: birthday party, celebration of 10 years with the company, an anniversary, or bon voyage

What to serve? How about Savory Grilled Spareribs or unusual Beer Burgers for the meat dish, out-of-this-world Stuffed Tomatoes that can be prepared before guests arrive and popped in the oven at the last minute, different California Ranch House Beans. Quickie ways to include the piquant flavoring of beer to your menu include simmering beer, adding fresh corn-on-the-cob and boiling for 5 minutes. You may want to cook your hot dogs in beer. Or drain and rinse sauerkraut, cover with beer and simmer. A conversation-piece coffee is that made with beer instead of water. The alcohol evaporates in cooking, leaving only the delicate flavor treasured by fine cooks for centuries.

SAVORY GRILLED SPARERIBS: 2 racks spareribs, garlic salt, pepper, 2 cups orange juice, ½ cup beer, ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar, ¼ cup soy sauce, 2 tbsp. dehydrated minced onion. Have butcher crack ribs to facilitate carving when ribs are cooked. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, place in shallow pan, mix other ingredients and pour over ribs. Let stand for at least 1 hour. Drain and reserve marinade. Grill ribs on rack about 6 inches above gray-hot coals. Cook 15-20 min. on each side, brushing every few minutes with marinade. Serves 6.

BEER BURGERS: 2 slices stale rye bread, ½ cup beer, 2 lbs. ground beef, 1 minced onion, ½ tsp. sage, salt and pepper to taste. Trim crusts from bread and break into small pieces. Pour beer over bread and let stand a few minutes until liquid is absorbed. Mix beef with onion, bread and seasonings, lightly but thoroughly. Form into patties and refrigerate for an hour or more to blend flavors. Serves 6-8.

STUFFED TOMATOES: 12 mdeium-size raw tomatoes, salt, pepper, one 12-oz. can whole kernel corn (drained), 1 small onion chopped, 2 cups grated sharp cheddar cheese, 3 cups soft bread crumbs, 2 cups beer. Slice tops from tomatoes, Scoop out pulp, leaving shell 1½ inches thick .Salt, pepper. Chop pulp and press out excess liquid. Add corn, onion, cheese, crumbs and mix well. Spoon into shells. Place in well-greased shallow baking pan. Spoon beer evenly over the tops. Bake at 350 deg. 20-25 min., or until tops are lightly browned. Serves 12.

CALIFORNIA RANCH HOUSE BEANS: 12 cups cooked pinto or pink beans (or six 1-lb., 4-oz. cans), 2 sliced onions, ½ lb. piece of bacon cut into 1-inch cubes. 1 cup chili sauce, 1 clove chopped garlic, 2 tbsp. firmly packed dark brown sugar, 1 quart beer, salt, pepper. Drains beans and mix with other ingredients. Simmer, uncovered, stirring occasionally for 1 hour or until liquid is absorbed.

Simple Salad To Serve On Warm Day

Hanohano means glorious in Hawaiian, and that is just what this simple-to-prepare salad is on a warm day.

Hanohano Salad is ideal for patio serving because it may be prepared a short time ahead and whisked to guests crispy cool from the refrigerator.

- 7 ripe bananas
- 1 cup (8 oz.) dairy sour cream
- 4 oz. Hawaiian rum
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- lettuce leaves
- One-third teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons lime or lemon juice
- fresh peach halves or large can (17 oz.) peach halves, drained and chilled
- 1 qt. fresh strawberries or frozen strawberries thawed and drained

Mash one banana with a fork and blend in sour cream, Hawaiian rum, sugar, ginger, salt and lemon or lime juice. Refrigerate for at least one hour.

To serve, arrange a bed of lettuce on a large serving platter, slice the half dozen remaining bananas lengthwise and arrange them on the lettuce leaves. Arrange the peach halves and strawberries on top and cover with the chilled dressing.

Hanohano Salad is a dish of infinite variety. The bananas are an integral part of the recipe, but other ingredients may be changed to suit taste or season of the year. Watermelon or Persian melon chunks may be substituted for peach halves.

Other berries may be used instead of strawberries according to seasonal supply. Raspberries, blackberries or loganberries are fine alternates.

For an even richer salad, diced avocado may be added to other components.

All Ages Like These Ingredients

Cucumber Sandwiches
Virginia Spread Crackers
Fruit Sherbet Cookies

VIRGINIA SPREAD

- 1 jar (4½ oz.) Smithfield - type deviled meat spread
- ¾ cup peanut butter
- 2 tablespoons slightly drained sweet pickle relish

In a small bowl thoroughly stir together all the ingredients. Cover and refrigerate; let stand at room temperature about ½ hour before serving. Makes about ¾ cup.

Steak For Your Luau

Even in Hawaii, where exotic good things for the grill abound, steak often is featrued at a family Luau or cookout. Here it often is served with a special sauce.

HAWAIIAN STEAK SAUCE

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons onion or shallots finely chopped
- 1 tablespoon powdered mustard
- 1 cup Hawaiian rum
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup canned beef gravy or brown sauce
- salt and pepper to taste
- water

Place the mustard in a dish and add water to make a thin paste. Allow the paste to stand for about 10 minutes to develop full flavor. Cook the onions (or shallots) in two tablespoons of the butter for about one minute, stirirng constantly. Add the rum and cook to reduce liquid by half. Add the brown sauce or gravy and salt and pepper and simmer for about 15 minutes. Add lemon juice and remove steak sauce from the heat. Stir in mustard and swirl in remaining butter. Do not cook after mustard is added. Makes about 1 cup served hot.

There Are Many Ways of Preparing Spareribs in Hawaii

There are as many ways of preparing spareribs in Hawaii as there are national origins in the Aloha State.

Good quality spareribs are pinkish in color with generous amounts of meat between the rib bones, which must themselves have a thin covering of meat. About one pound of ribs must be allowed per serving if used as a main course.

The Hawaiians prefer spareribs barbecued — which can be done in three ways. One way is to marinate the ribs as indicated on recipe, then place them from eight to ten inches away from hot coals on a barbecue. It takes an hour or more, turning the ribs often and brushing frequently with sauce. You can tell whether ribs are done or not by making a small cut between the center bones. If the juice comes out clear and yellow, the spareribs are done.

A barbecue with an electric spit simplifies cooking. Simply arrange a rack of marinated ribs on the spit and roast for about one-hour basting frequently for glaze and flavor.

Ribs may be partially prepared ahead of time by parboiling for half an hour, then marinating in whatever barbecue sauce is preferred. After this treatment, they may be made ready to serve by broiling over charcoal for about 20 minutes with frequent basting.

SPARERIBS PUAA KAA

Ribs prepared this way are named after "The Place of Rolling Pigs" on the island of Maui, the only place in the world where the sugar cane which produces Hawaiian rum is grown. The area receives its name from the days when plump wild pigs roamed the steep grassy hills of the vicinity.

Marinade and Basting Sauce Puaa Kaa

1 tablespoon fresh minced ginger or ½ teaspoon powdered ginger
½ cup soy sauce
One-third cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons Hawaiian rum
½ teaspoon salt

Add other ingredients to ginger and blend. Rub the sauce into the ribs and marinate for one hour. Then barbecue on spit or rack until done, basting frequently with remaining sauce. Before serving, cut between ribs. Should be served hot, with hot mustard and sweet-sour sauce.

This dish may be prepared ahead by placing ribs on a rack in a foil-lined pan and cooking in a moderate oven (325 degrees) for one hour. Turn after 30 minutes and baste with remaining sauce. Before serving, reheat by placing in 275-degree oven for 10 minutes.

Hot Mustard Dip

Mix a paste of equal parts of powdered mustard and Hawaiian rum, stirring out lumps. Let stand for about 10 minutes to bring out full strength.

Sweet and Sour Dip

1 cup Hawaiian rum
½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup vinegar
Dash cayenne
2 teaspoons powdered mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash black pepper
Cornstarch

Combine all ingredients except cornstarch and bring to a boil. Add enough cornstarch (premixed with water) to thicken.

SPARERIBS OAHU

Marinade

½ cup Hawaiian rum
¼ cup soy sauce
2 garlic cloves, crushed
¼ cup orange marmalade

Combine ingredients and marinate ribs in one piece for five hours. Drain sauce and cook marinated ribs on spit or over a slow fire, basting occasionally with marinade until done (one to 1½ hours). Cut ribs apart and serve. Sauce Kihei is excellent with ribs prepared in this fashion.

Sauce Kihei

1 garlic clove, minced
1 medium onion, minced
1 beef bouillon cube
1 large (15-16 oz.) can meatless spaghetti sauce
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 cup water
1 cup Hawaiian rum
Dash cayenne

Combine ingredients, bring to a boil and simmer uncovered for 30 minutes, stirring constantly.

Ripe Fruit 'Sweetheart' In Hawaii

Huapala actually means ripe fruit in the Hawaiian language, but it also is the poetic term for sweetheart.

Huapala Tree

The base of the Huapala tree is made by cutting off the top of the fresh pineapple about one inch below the leaves, discarding that part. Cut off about another inch from the top and hold. Remove the fruit from remaining pineapple buy cutting it out with a sharp knife without slashing into the rind. This process can be simplified by removing a small part of the other end of the pineapple to allow easy access to the fruit from both ends.

After fruit is extracted, rehave held in reserve and secure place the one-inch slice you it to the hollow base with toothpicks. This will give you a solid fruit top for insertion of straws or small skewers.

Insert straws or small bamboo skewers of various lengths and colors into the top of the pineapple, exactly as though making a floral arrangement. Each straw or skewer should be topped by a pineapple bit, marinated for one hour in Hawaiian rum, Leilani fruit squares, maraschino cherries, strawberires and even — if you chose — gum drops from the candy store.

Guests may pluck their choice of sweets.

Arranging the "limbs" on the Huapala Tree enables the hostess to give free rein to her artistic talents.

Leilani Fruit Squares

1-3 cup soft butter or margarine
1-3 cup light corn syrup
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Hawaiin rum
1 pound confectioners (10-X) sugar
½ cup candied pineapple, cherries, orange and lemon peels or any candied fruit

Blend all ingredients except sugar. Mix in sugar and candied fruit and knead until blended. Roll to about ½-inch thick and cut into squares or into rounds.

Grapefruit At Barbecue

Grapefruit Wela, or hot grapefruit, is an unusual dish that goes with almost any barbecued Hawaiian food.

GRAPEFRUIT WELA

1 grapefruit (for each two servings)
Nutmeg
Strawberries or Maraschino Cherries
Honey
Hawaiian rum

To prepare, cut grapefruit in half crosswise, and remove seeds. Remove core and loosen each portion from membrane. Fill the center with Hawaiian rum, topped with a little honey and a sprinkling of nutmeg. Wrap each section in double thickness of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Lay fruit, cut side up on grill over medium heat for about 20 minutes. Unwrap and serve hot. Garnish each grapefruit half with a fresh strawberry or maraschino cherry in center.

QUICK TIPS:

X-Boardwalk Salad: On each 6-inch skewer, place small wedge lettuce, cherry tomato, and pickle; repeat. Top with carrot curl.

The success of Doros, and its world wide reputation as one of the very finest award-winning restaurants in San Francisco, is due mainly to the personal attention given to every detail by owner-manager Don Dianda . . . Scotty Campbell's For Unbeatable Dining Out

To enter Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City is to step into a microcosmic reflection of all that is good about the restaurant world — not only in terms of cuisine, service and atmosphere, but in terms of mood and style that give some indication of its colorful owners. Throughout the three dining areas (The Fireplace Room, the Red Room and the Bonnie Dee) Scotfish is naturally the prevailing leif-motif, with emphasis on Highland decor and uniformed waitresses in checkered kilties, knee socks and tartars that represent the various clans. Scotty Campbell's has always specialized in steaks and prime rib, but since changing hands five years ago to Bud and Theresa Urban (and Theresa's sister, Mary Lou Francis) that emphasis has become stronger than ever — whether your order comes from "the hearth ,oven or skillet." The Pepper Steak, an item you won't find on the menu — you must ask for it, is possibly one of the choicest dishes of head chef Salvador Sandavol and his brother, Abel. Despite all these plus factors, Scotty Campbell's still offers more than first-class service and cuisine. Mary Lou Francis' hobby of collecting antiques is an integral part of this restaurant's decor. All in all, Scotty Campbell's is an unbeatable dining place.

NOW APPEARING — The Rene Paulo Quartette opened a limited engagement in the V.I.P. Lounge of the San Francisco Le Baron Hotel, located on Bayshore Highway in Burlingame. The group will be performing nightly from 8:30 p.m. until 1:30 a.m.

Favorites of everyone who drop by The Matterhorn Swiss restaurant in Burlingame for dinner are Chef Wilfried Blarer's Veal Cordon Bleu and Sauerbraten. Or if you'd like to try your hand at being a chief, cook your own Fondue Bourguignonne at your table. . . . Lamb is one of the favorite dishes found in the Greek cuisine at the Balkan Village. Chef Pete Maglaras uses mint, oregano, lemon and olive oil extensively in this and many of the popular vegetable dishes. . . . Credit much of the artistry in culinary dishes at L'Auberge in Atherton to Chef Rudy Camozzi. His personal favorites are Noisette of Lamb Flambe and Rex Sole Meuniere. . . . Food, grog and entertainment is the recipe for success at Bob Starkey's Smuggler's Inn in Hayward. If you're taking in the theater after dinner (Cinema I and II are located nearby), mention it to your waitress so she can see that your meal is served with careful attention to show time. Flamenco guitarist Meacham entertains in the lounge from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.; Cal and Al offer piano and base sounds during the dinner hours. . . . The Fuji Sukiyaki is once again open for business. After vacationing, Dorothy and Bob returned to restaurant duties, which means their Japanese dishes are satisfying the appeties of both eat in and take out requests.

The switch to complete waiter service and an excellent new menu should attract legions of new patrons to Al Malatesta's Belmont Prime Rib, one of the Peninsula's most popular dining spots. Dinners are priced from just $3.25 complete. Prime Ribs, Filet Mignon Steaks and Pan Fried Chicken are still featured, along with Veal Scaloppine, Abalone, and other select entrees. Salad is tossed by your waiter at tableside and served on a chilled plate. Chef Ed Zagos home made raviolis are included with all dinners . . . Frank and Fanny Torres played host recently to the 12th District Coast Guard Auxiliary when 55 of its members held their installation dinner-meeting at Torres Beach Restaurant in Montara. Prime Rib was the main course, with Marybel Cool of San Carlos handling the arrangements in her role as secretary . . . Exotic teas and a vast selection of espresso and Continental coffees are specialties at The Cathedral, a unique cafe located on Burlingame Avenue. A menu of hot dishes, salads, and open-faced sandwiches (prepared on Danish punpernickel) are featured by owner-hosts Jack Menzie and Chris Vlassis. Cathedral spirits include both imported and domestic wines.

Live radio broadcasting direct from the club will feature The Dealers every Sunday from 9:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. over Station KVEZ. Drop in and join the fun, on live radio. . . . Ron Giannotti will announce at a later date the return of an entertainment policy at his Surf House in San Mateo. In the meantime, enjoy luncheon or dinner served in an atmosphere of refinement. Not open Mondays. . . . Shiver y'r timbers 'n batten all hatches, ride the tide to San Mateo's one 'n only Cap'ns Cabin. Join the crew 'n Skipper Duane Eckert on the quarter deck for a brew or two. . . . Wini Gould, a belting, rotund redhot mama who is a latter-day Sophie Tucker, is one of the unusual entertainment group now tearing up Nero's Nook at the Cabana Hyatt House in Palo Alto. Each member of Al Anthony and the Assortment is an exciting performer in his own right . . .

Marriott Inn Requires Extensive Inventory

Getting the new $3 million dollar Marriott Inn (at the entrance to Marine World in Belmont) ready for its September opening was a tremendous job. More than 20 persons were involved in purchasing the huge list of supplies necessary, which included everything from the 12 love seats at poolside to 42 dozen salad dishes in the dining room. The Marriott's two restaurants, the Saxon Platter Room and the Piper's Pantry, will be serving almost 500 persons daily. If you order a cocktail in the P's and Q's Lounge, resembling a convivial old English pub, the glass containing your drink is matched by 2,400 glasses just like it. The luckiest guy in the organization is the one who selects and purchases the hundreds of fine wines stocked in Marriott's wine cellar. Each one of them has to be tasted . . . The Domino Penthouse's Leonard Garr and Jerry Sharkey are real blockbusters. Their piano and comedy routines will keep you in stitches and the lovely undraped model performs every 20 minutes.

El Rancho Expansion Program Well Underway

Eighty-four guest rooms officially opened Friday at the El Rancho Motel in Millbrae under the supervision of owner-manager Earl M. Wilms. The opening marks the first phase of a 120-unit expansion program which will make the El Rancho one of the largest motels on El Camino Real in San Mateo County, with a total of 250 units. Each room is equipped with a GE climate control unit for guest comfort, soundproofed, and lavishly furnished. The El Rancho's unique glass wall pool, which is visible through the Mermaid Room Lounge, offers guests a cool dip during the day. The hosts are especially proud of the food, whether you dine in the attractive Mermaid Room, catching a snack in the coffee shop, or attending a banquet in one of the many meeting rooms. During the after-dinner hours in the lounge, Bill Nokes entertains at the organ. All major credit cards are accepted in the motel and dining room. The AAA-approved El Rancho is located on El Camino Real just north of the Millbrae Square Shopping Center. Courtesy cars service San Francisco Airport for out-of-town guests.

If you're planning an evening "on the town" in San Francisco's theater district, Phil Lehr's Steakery is a great bet. Park your car in the big Ellis and Taylor lot adjoining Lehr's Carriage Entrance. After dinner at the Steakery, it's just a short, pleasant walk to the Curran or Geary, or to the Market Street movie houses . . . Sil Oliva's Exposition Fish Grotto bought the prize blue-ribbon winning beef at the San Mateo County Fair. Chef Art Davis lost no time in highlighting the Expo's menu with the choice cuts of Sil's purchase . . . If you like to nibble on hot hors d'oeuvres while relaxing over cocktails, you'll be more than pleased with the spread served in the lounge at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. nightly . . . Where is there a good restaurant where children are not only welcome, but are catered to with a special children's menu, you ask.

Mobile Home Park Still to Be Built

TRAILERS FOR SALE OR RENT, ETC. — It looks like Brandenburg & Associates have scrapped their plans to build a multi-million $$$ mobile home park off Hoffman street in Daly City. But the park will still be built! Our source claims a Los Angeles firm has taken over the project. Meanwhile, Brandenburg-Staedler are pursuing their plans to erect apartments between Hoffman and Chester streets. The rezoning appears on tonight's D.C. Planning Commission agenda.

ROUGH AND READY — New Daly City policeman Louis Donati will tell you that department's training is ROUGH. While practicing some rather difficult body holds on a fellow officer the other day, the husky Donati threw his shoulder out of kapot.

REMEMBER THAT 1927 SEAGRAVE fire truck that was recently auctioned off in South San Francisco for $2,300? Well, it caught fire near Santa Barbara, as its new owner was driving it to Los Angeles, causing about $1,800 damage to the vehicle. Seems some spilled gasoline exploded as the truck re-started after being refueled at a service station.

FUNNY THING ABOUT our Board of Supervisors, they don't seem to want to communicate with North County cities or the press for that matter, even on simple things — like what happened to that D.C.-County Library Agreement? Board chairman Bob St. Clair was asked why the agreement was passed over by the full board at last week's meeting and he mumbled something about a "staff recommendation" or something, promising a full report the following day. That was more than a week ago! Hello! Hello!

THERE WAS AN INTERESTING discussion of semantics at the last meeting of the North County Council of Cities. Finally, after listening to the argument for several minutes, Brisbane city attorney Dave Friedenberg commented: "I'm anti-semantic."

CONGRATS AND ALL THAT STUFF — Not one, but TWO Daly City policemen were married last week — the same first names, the same day and the exact time, but to different girls (of course) and at different churches. Happy Honeymoons to officers Bob Jordan and his bride Carol Lee (Hilton) and Bob Vogt and his lovely Anatasia (Koustas).

D. C. COUNCILMAN and local businessman Frank Pacelli let it slip he plans yet another stationery store to add to the two he already owns (at Westlake and Serramonte). Where? Tanforan — now under construction.

LET'S START FIGURING out this 27th Assembly District race. It's no secret that Leo Ryan will run (we already predicted that); and from the other side of the fence it appears restaurateur Frank (Toto) Spadarella will announce soon, likewise Mexican-American Political Association (MAPA) representative Victor Hinojos. Two other Republicans are on the fence and rather hard to figure. Former judge Paul Hupf is one of these. It looks more and more like Hupf will indeed run.

This is based on two recent facts: His appearance at a Republican Alliance breakfast last month and, more recently, his sitting in at a Daly City dinner-meeting of the North County Council of Cities. Filing date is in November and the behind the scenes shuffling gets more interesting daily.

BIG DOINGS SUNDAY IN D.C. — The Hermanos Latinos (D.C. citizens with Spanish surnames) is holding a dance at the Sirloin Steak Pit at the corner of Crocker and Mission Streets September 14 from 1 to 10 p.m. Spanish food and other refreshments. Julius Castilans and Maria Luna promise an afternoon of fun (for a $1 donation). End of plug.

'Quite an Education'

A POINT OF CORRECTION — We have been accused by a Daly City official of inferring that the "four-second light" — last week's topic — was in Daly City. Sir, we did not infer. The statement was positive though erroneous and accept my apologies, Daly City, inasmuch as the siting of that idiotic (still!) traffic signal is correctly in unincorporated Colma (San Mateo County territory).

A COUPLE of home-makers, using a car-mounted loudspeaker system to announce a forthcoming meeting (Thursday night) of the Broadmoor Property Owners association, in relation to a petition before the Local Agency Formation Commission asking annexation of the section to Daly City, got what they they said was quite an "education."

Perhaps, you shouldn't call it an education, except that they learned how ignorant (unaware) many persons are, even in the 9,000-peopled Broadmoor-Colma Uninc. area.

They told of approaching several citizens who swore they lived in Broadmoor Village, not Colma, Unicorporated, and that the movement should be toward joining Daly City, not Colma.

Thus, the difference between Colma, Incorporated and Colma, Unincorporated, seems to be in question in the minds of some residents.

THE WOMEN said they had attempted to assure those people who were in doubt that it wasn't a matter of choice between annexation with Daly City or Colma Unincorporated; that Broadmoor Village IS Colma Unincorporated.

Some residents did not even know what the term, "annexation," meant, the two asserted, and that knowledge shouldn't make either "side" too happy, because it indicates, to us at any rate, people really are apathetic, just like everyone says, about most things 'ceptin' their moneybags. When the pinch is felt there, look for some of that elusive awareness.

SOMEONE is getting exasperated, if the neatly lettered sign on the newly-installed Pacific telephone instrument by Westlake Liquors is accurate:

"Out of Order Again!"

MRS. EUGENE (MARGARET) GRAHAM, 758 Rockaway Beach Avenue, Pacifica, is in Mississipi, doing rehabilitative case work among Hurricane Camille victims for the American Red Cross.

A 15-year veteran volunteer of the Coastside Region of the Red Cross, she left last Thursday for Gulfport and other hard-hit areas.

An official of the Coastside office said Mrs. Graham will be away about six weeks, pushing aside for a while her usual news bulletin work and the vice-chairmanship of the Service to Military Families Committee.

She has been public information chairman for the Coastside region, but recently received training in rehabilitative case work.

A PERSONAL NOTE: Always before, we've reserved our deadliest, straightest poison-arrows for drunken drivers, but now we've added hit-and-run animal drivers.

Strange, isn't it how over the years — and not necessarily too many years either — a pet dog or cat becomes a real member of the family?

Like our late dog, Pepper, who dashed when he shouldn't have into the street Saturday and got plucked off, neatly, by a one of the many speeders on 87th Street — which has become a speedway ever since motorists got the habit when Eastmoor Avenue caved in last year.

What a sight for the children and the wife, who saw this "one of the family" pets sail through the air the full length of our property.

What a sight to see all the tears.

It wasn't the driver's fault he hit the animal, and we don't know whether or not anything would have been different if he hadn't been speeding. But . . .

As for not stopping, that's both illegal and raunchy, even if it wouldn't have saved him. Fortunately, the car's description has been furnished.

RE., ABOVE, a good note: Thank God it wasn't one of the many tots in the neighborhood!

AN EDITORIAL

Education Now Never Ending

There is a tendency to think of the formal education process as a nine-months-out-of-the-year program involving millions of children and young adults. But increasingly the American population is returning to school at all ages and at all times of the year.

Nor is "education" a process which is found only in ivy-covered buildings on great campuses. American industry is contributing heavily to a relatively new type of educational institution—the company school—to train its technical and management personnel in the latest innovations in their field.

The roster of corporations which are investing millions in their own training and educational facilities reads like an industrial who's who. Western Electric, IBM, GE, GM and RCA are a few of the giants who have invested heavily in their own institutes.

Newest 'Best Seller'

LET US PAUSE to consider San Francisco's newest "best seller" the phonebook.

Here is a river of print overflowing with much more information than telephone numbers.

With a map of San Francisco that outlines the zones, page one of the yellow pages puts zip into using the zip code. Each of the twenty-six zones is marked with its number and outlined in black lines.

Page three gives the same type of a map with a similar information for Daly City and also lists the zips for Millbrae, Pacifica, San Bruno and South San Francisco.

PAGES THREE, four and five of the yellow pages are a kind presentation to ease the problems that torment all who must use public transportation. Page three lists each street car, each cable car, and each coach line and outlines its route through the city. Pages four and five map the routes as described on page three and gives the terminal points for each.

The last page in the yellow pages contains 14 calenders and a code. With them it is possible to determine the day of the week and the week of any given date from 1776 to the year 2000.

Observe the possibilities on this page for information and hours of fun. The Declaration of Independence was proclaimed on Thursday (July 4, 1776), California became a state on Monday (September 9, 1850), President Nixon was born on Thursday (January 9, 1913), our century started on Monlay and will end on Friday, and, to get personal, a lady in my office was born on Wednesday and if she lives tocele brate it, her 70th birthday will be Saturday.

PAGES 1123 to 1130 of the yellow pages present some excellent suggestions for using your phone: among them, how to get your dime back if a pay phone keeps it by mistake and what you can do about pushy telephone sales calls.

The first 20 pages of the new phone book contains instructions on how to use your phone. Among the items treated are area codes with maps included, how to make collect calls, conference calls, long distance calls, and emergency calls, what the charges will be, how to get the operators assistance, how to call repair service, how to send telegrams, how to find the time and the weather and many others.

Even the covers of the book are worth their weight in gold. The reverse of the front cover lists instructions for calling the fire department, the police, your doctor, and ambulance, the FBI, the Coast Guard, and the highway patrol. The middle of the page is a warning to any person who willfully refuses to relinquish the telephone line in case of an emergency.

THE BACK COVER contains a map of San Francisco in bright yellow with the public parks marked in green, the major freeways in red and other major roads in black.

The new phone book has three sections — the white pages with names, addresses and telephone numbers as in any phone book; the green section which is a guide to the headings in the yellow pages and finally the yellow pages that the publishers call a classified telephone directory.

'Loan Finders' Return

MANY PROPERTY OWNERS, because of the tight money situation, have to turn to unfamiliar sources to borrow money. A few years ago the public suffered serious losses from the con men who had a field day in the "loan finding" field.

Because these men are back in operation again, harvesting a new crop of victims, the U.S. Securities Exchange Commission has released the following warning:

"Recent newspaper advertisements and public relations by various persons, corporations, partnerships, trusts and unincorporated organizations have offered aid to prospective borrowers in obtaining loans for real estate development.

"From a private investigation being conducted by the Commission into possible violations of the statutes it administers, it appears that some of these offers are made by persons or organizations which do not have the ability to secure such funds or do not have any intention of obtaining finances for the prospective borrowers, as distinguished from the operating procedures of reputable mortgage brokers, whose business is based upon obtaining the requisite financing and the subsequent servicing of this financing.

"These schemes appear to follow two basic patterns. In one, the borrower must pay a substantial non-refundable fee or fees without receiving a written loan commitment. In the other, the borrower pays a substantial advance fee pursuant to an agreement which is silent or ambiguous on whether the fee is refundable if a loan commitment is not obtained within a reasonable period of time and the payee will not return the funds or delays returning the funds until forced to do so by the appropriate legal authorities. It is, of course, possible that such schemes might take other forms.

"It should be pointed out that the persons deceived and misled by these schemes were not merely ordinary property owners who were unfamiliar with the mechanics of mortgage loan transactions, but include many prominent companies and individuals with substantial experience in the real estate and development field who are confronted with the tight mortgage money market. We do not suggest that there are not legitimate organizations in this field or that they do not provide a useful service to borrowers, particularly in times of tight money.

"Nevertheless, persons interested in obtaining such loans should satisfy themselves that the firm with which they are dealing have the ability to obtain the proposed financing and are committed to do so before receiving substantial advance fees from the prospective borrower.

"There are indications that the use of these schemes may be widespread and that large sums have been lost by prospective borrowers. Accordingly, in order to alert prospective borrowers and the industry of the problems and to prevent the success of fradulent operations, we are publishing this release."

Places to Go

Bucks Lake in Plumas For Relaxation in Wilderness

THERE ARE HUNDREDS of lakes in California that draw fishermen, swimmers, boaters and just plain relaxers, but one that really keeps drawing these people back year after year is Bucks Lake in Plumas County. The hikers, campers, fishermen and hunters are drawn by the wildness of the lakes' northern area while those who seek relaxation, swimming, boating and the comforts of a resort area return to the south shore.

Easily accessible, yet nestled a mile-high in the Feather River Country between the Feather River's North and Middle Forks, Bucks Lake appears as if it has been there as long as any of the other natural lakes, says the California State Automobile Association.

It wasn't until 1924, however, that the lake started to appear after power company engineers dammed Bucks Creek. The three-mile long lake has a 14-mile curving shoreline and is from one to two-and-one-half miles wide with a surface area of 1,827 acres.

The valley and creek was named for Horace "Buck" Bucklin, who settled here briefly in 1850.

Fishermen come here in pursuit of the wily and fighting rainbows, German brown, kokanee salmon and the brook trout while hunters stalk the elusive and wary black-tailed bucks that roam the timberlands of the national forest surrounding the lake. Visitors who keep a sharp eye peeled can spot quail, chipmunk, squirrel, porcupine, beaver and possibly even a bear. Coyotes cry out their lonesome songs at nighttime.

SCATTERED THHROUGHOUT the back country around Bucks Lake are some exceptionally good fishing lakes and streams such as Bear Creek, Grizzly Creek and the Middle Fork of the Feather River. But, you'll have to go on shank's mare, by horseback or jeep to reach these areas. Close by fishing can be found at Haskins Creek, Mill Creek and it's Left Hand Branch.

Accommodations at Bucks Lake range from the modern resorts with all the comforts at the south end, to isolated lakeshore campsites. Campers and hikers prefer to bring their own boat or rent one and go to the north end where there is lots of wilderness. A favorite spot is Mill Creek Bay.

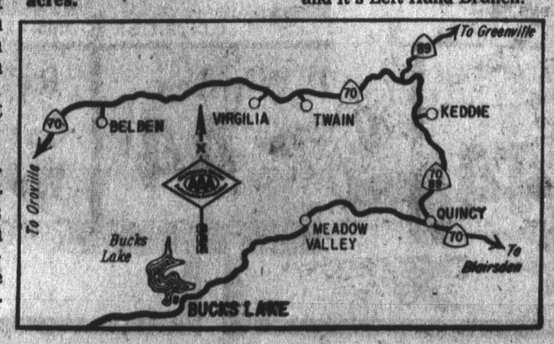
The national forest around the lake invites all to explore and wander through the ponderosa, lodgepole and sugar pine, white and red fir, and incense cedar.

For those who wish to journey back to the Gold Rush days of '49, there are old gold diggins up along Willow, Goldwater and Big Creeks with names like Chicken Flat, Star of Plumas and Hardquartz.

BEFORE THE LAKE was formed the area was known as Bucks Ranch and was a key stopping place on the stage-coach road linking Qunicy with the Sacramento Valley. During the heyday of Bucks Ranch there was a post office, store and stage station.

If you want a spectacular view of the whole area, follow a footpath to Inspiration Point on the lake's south shore. The trail starts at the ranger station where you can also pick up your campfire permit. There is a plaque on a big rock that marks the site of the old store and hotel.

To reach this vacation and fishing spot, take the Feather River Highway (State Route 70) to Quincy, then go west on Bucks Lake Road. It's 15 miles over paved road into this "come-back-again" paradise.



BARBARA BLADEN

Only the Beginning

Nudity on the stage may be cause for giggling, and in some cases, gagging, but with "Oh, Calcutta," (set to open next month at the On Broadway Theatre) "Geese" and "Hair," we've only seen the beginning.

When the shock waves subside, serious drama may take up the cause, in this case, nudity not for the sake of art but for the sake of realism.

Jacques Levy, director of "Oh, Calcutta" has closed his rehearsals to everyone, including press agent, company manager and relatives of the cast, his own included.

"My father always approved and liked my work but recently said, 'you know, I don't really know what you're doing. Why don't I drop by and watch a rehearsal.' But it's difficult enough for these kids to adjust to nudity and familiarity. That's why we do intensive psychological conditioning before the show opens to the public. And that's why we feel such a ticklish matter needs six weeks of previews before we're judged by the critics."

A clinical psychologist by profession, and former staff member of Menninger Clinic, Levy was here last year as director of "Scuba Duba." It was his idea of putting the show together in the form it's now playing in New York and San Francisco. Kenneth Tynan, British critic and literary figure, approached him with the idea of an erotic revue for the London stage. Levy suggested using a few American writers, then the concept changed.

"NO ONE KNEW THE RULES ABOUT EXHIBITIONISM, what can happen or how the public will react. But they all expect me to be an expert on thes ject. I've found better approaches to staging it now with the second production. And this company has the security of knowing they're in a show that works. We've already received requests for first row seats from people who are near-sighted."

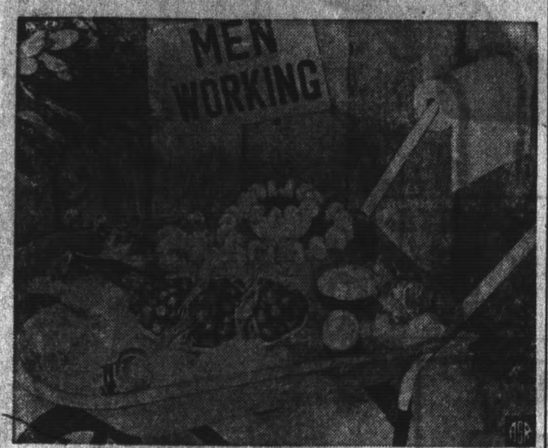
Entertainment With Old Wheelbarrow



Chances are you have an old wheel barrow in the garage that's gathering more dust than anything. With a little cleaning and a spray of bright colored paint, that old wheel barrow can be the most valuable asset to your outdoor entertaining.

Wheeled to the backyard, the wheel barrow serves a dual purpose. Filled with ice, it becomes a portable appetizer cart keeping hors d' oeuvres and soft drinks cold. Over one handle slips a roll of Viva towels for the chef or guests to use as needed.

Designed to assist in barbecue preparation, paper towels are conveniently available for the chef as he works at the nearby grill—for a quick cleaning of hands, emergency pot holders, a disposable tuck-in-the-belt apron, and for a final cleaning of the grill and utensils. As for the guests, paper towels are close at hand for drying the cans and bottles of soda as they come out of the ice and they serve as napkins for appetizer nibblers.

Displayed in a wheel barrow of ice, appetizers stay crisp and cold even on the hottest of evenings. To tempt summer appetites, serve cold shrimp with a gazpacho sauce and vegetable relishes with a mild ginger dip.

Gazpacho Sauce

- 1 can (8 ozs.) tomato sauce
- ¼ cucumber, peeled and chopped
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 1 tablespoon sherry (optional)
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Blend all ingredients together in blender; chill. Makes 1 cup.

Ginger Dip

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger

Combine mayonnaise and ginger; blend well. Makes 1 cup.

A Graham Nut Torte Is 'Simple'

Although tortes are traditionally one of the most comp.icated dessert delicacies to prepare, this one is really easy. The cake layers are made with a base of packaged graham cracker crumbs with chopped pecans added for extra richness. They are then split and spread with a whipped cream and pineapple mixture and chilled for an hour—or all day if you wish. Serve this elegant torte soon.

Sunny Graham-Nut Torte

- ½ cup sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 cups Sunshine graham cracker crumbs
- ½ cup butter (1 stick)
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 eggs, separated
- 1 cup chopped pecans
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 can crushed pineapple, well drained
- Maraschino cherries

Mix sifted flour and baking powder together with crumbs. Cream butter, gradually add sugar and mix well. Add egg yolks and beat until light and fluffy. Stir in nuts and vanilla. Add crumb mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with the dry material; beat just until smooth. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold gently into crumb mixture. Turn into waxed paper-lined 8-inch layer pans. Bake in moderately not oven (375°) for about 30 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool pans on rack. When thoroughly cool, remove layers from pans and peel off paper. Split each layer in two. Whip cream until stiff and stir in drained pineapple. Spread mixture evenly over four layers and stack. Refrigerate at least an hour before serving. Decorate with cherries. Yield: 8 to 10 servings

Interesting Trifle A Great Dessert

It's just a "trifle" to make, but what an interesting dessert! Borrowed from the English Tipsy Squire, this Coffee Magic Trifle is a cooling, layered beauty with plenty of flavor. New-fashioned ingredients like instant pudding and Maxim Freeze-Dried Coffee are responsible for the easy preparation.

Coffee-Magic Trifle

- 1 tablespoon freeze-dried coffee
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 package (3¾-oz.) vanilla instant pudding
- 1½ cups milk
- 1 cooled baked 8-inch sponge cake layer*
- ½ cup water
- ¼ cup cream sherry wine
- ¼ cup chopped nuts
- 1 envelope whipped topping mix

*Or use 1 packaged 7-inch sponge layer.

Combine coffee and ¼ cup milk in bowl and stir until coffee is dissolved. Add pudding mix and 1½ cups milk and beat slowly with rotary beater or at low speed of electric mixer 1 to 2 minutes. Cut cake layer 3 times horizontally and 3 times vertically, to make 16 pieces. Combine water and sherry. Quickly dip cake pieces in sherry mixture and layer with the nuts in a serving dish.

Prepare whipped topping mix as directed on package; blend 1 cup into the pudding mixture. Spoon over cake pieces. Chill. Garnish with remaining prepared whipped topping. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Good Company And Good Food

This is certainly the time to get out in the fresh air under blue skies and live. Good company, comfortable clothes, and food that's easy to prepare make up the menu for this kind of a party.

Teriyaki, with its Far Eastern accent, make an exotic dish for adults while younger folk munch happily on their favorite foods — hamburgers and frankfurters. The cubed sirloin steak used for the tasty Teriyaki marinates several hours or overnight in a piquant sauce of rich, mellow molasses, soy sauce, sherry, onion and ground ginger.

Shape the hamburger meat into patties and cut slits in the frankfurthers preparatory to grilling, and there's little left to do except make the barbecue sauce. A zesty basic sauce made with molasses, vinegar, tomato sauce and seasonings is delicious on broiled chicken, too.

The molasses is the same fine unsulphured molasses that your mother and grandmothers have been using for many years, it's full-bodied flavor and high quality are unchanged; it is a pure, natural product with no preservatives or sulphur dioxide added.

TERIYAKI

2 pounds sirloin steak, about 1 inch thick
One-third cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon ground ginger
½ cup soy sauce
¼ cup sherry
One-third cup molasses
Pineapple chunks (optional)

Cut steak into 1-inch cubes. Combine onion, ginger, soy sauce, sherry and molasses in a bowl; mix well. Add meat. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. Remove meat. Alternate meat on skewers with pineapple chunks. Grill to desired degree of doneness.

YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

ZESTY BARBECUE SAUCE

¼ cup molasses
¼ cup vinegar
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon chili powder
⅛ teaspoon Tabasco

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes.

YIELD: Approximately 1¼ cups (enough for 2 dozen frankfurters or hamburgers, or 3 broiler-fryer chickens).

Zodiac Cakes For Your Party

A new booklet, Zodiac Cake Serving Ideas, gives individualized cakes for every personality of the Zodiac. There are Harvest Moon Cup Cakes for Virgo, Black Forest Cake for traveling Sagittarius, a baked Alaska to match the strong opposing traits of Scorpio. And all are made easily with completely baked, fresh frozen cakes.

The free booklet, which has special appeal as party favors and club program distribution, may be ordered singly or in quantities by writing "Zodiac Cake Serving Idea Booklet, Kitchens of Sara Lee (ASR-2), 500 Waukegan Road, Deerfield, Ill. 60015."

This cake, created especially to match the duality of the Gemini personality, features two chocolate cakes with a non-routine frosting.

Gemini Creme de Chocolate Cake

2—Sara Lee completely baked, fresh frozen Chocolate Cakes
2—packages white butter cream frosting mix
1—tablespoon Creme de Cacao
2—tablespoons Creme de Menthe

Cut each cake in half lengthwise while still in frozen state; invert tops so frosting is in center. Prepare frosting according to package directions with the addition of the liqueurs. Spread frosting between uniced cake layers and on sides and top. Decorate with shaved chocolate. Serves eight to twelve.

Chicken's Ideal For Your Picnic

Everyone loves cold fried chicken for a picnic. It's delicate and juicy, the crisp crust providing just the needed contrast in texture. The National Broiler Council points out that chicken is economical, too. To bring out all the natural sweet juicy taste of the meat, use Ac'cent as a basic, like salt and pepper. Ac'cent is a flavor friend both at the range and at the barbecue. And if you're feeling adventurous, there are many variations of spices, herbs or cheese that will give your fried chicken extra flair. Happy picnicking!

Picnic-Fried Chicken

1½ cups flour
2 teaspoons Ac'cent
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons paprika
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
Oil for frying

Combine flour and seasonings. Rinse chicken pieces in cold running water, but do not dry; immediately roll pieces in seasoned flour. Heat oil, ½ inch deep in skillet, until drop of water added to oil sizzles. Place chicken, skin side down, in skillet. Put larger, meatier pieces in first; add livers last few minutes of cooking time. Cook uncovered 15 to 25 minutes on each side, turning only once. Drain well on absorbent paper.

YIELD: 8 servings.

Variations: Savory-Fried Chicken: Add 2 teaspoons poultry seasoning, savory or thyme to flour mixture. Curry-Fried Chicken: Add 2 teaspoons curry powder and ½ teaspoon ginger to flour mixture. Parmesan-Fried Chicken: Decrease flour to 1 cup; add 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese and 2 teaspoons oregano to flour mixture. Crispy-Fried Chicken: Do not rinse chicken. Dip pieces in evaporated milk, then roll in seasoned flour.

Capuchino Opens With Some Changes

Students returning to Capuchino High School on September 3 found several changes in the staff. Replacing Andrew Jezycki, assistant principal, who has been assigned to the Central Office of the San Mateo Union High School District, is Gordon Young.

Young will exchange his teaching and coaching duties to serve as acting assistant principal this year. Welcomed back from sabbatical was Richard O'Malley, math department head, who served as a mathematics professor at Hayward State College this past summer.

Two new counselors to Capuchino are Miss Lucille Chaiken and Jack Loye. Among the new teachers are two former Capuchino graduates, Peter Pontacq and Lynn Raymond. Richard Nazarenus will replace Ken Ton as drama teacher during Ton's sabbatical. Robert Davis will serve as woodshop teacher during the first semester while Robert Wilkens has a half year sabbatical. Mrs. Jane Fenn, English and social science teacher; Miss Gretchen Oberhauser, homemaking teacher; and Mrs. Deanna Denver, physical education teacher, are other members new to the staff.

Highlights of activities preceding the opening of school were a Freshman orientation program and a luncheon for the Cap staff hosted by the PTS (Parent-Teacher-Student Association).

The freshman orientation program was planned by Freshman Commissioner and Junior student Barry Visen with the cooperation of Student Body officers and members of the Cap Girls' Association. Members of the Freshman class enjoyed greetings from staff members, refreshments, a tour of the school and a swim as their welcome to Capuchino.

Mrs. Beth Tegnell president of the PTS, planned the staff luncheon with Mrs. Banchero. Student and parent members of the association served as table hostesses. Each hostess was responsible for decorating her table. Honored guests in attendance were San Mateo Union High School District Board President, Mrs. Evelyn Grant; board member Dr. John H. Linn; Deputy Superintendent, Dr. Carl M. Hammer; Assistant Superintendent, Dr. Edward T. Walsh; and Administrative Assistant, Mrs. Louise Ebeling.

School is in full swing with athletic events in track and football; Freshman representative elections next week; and an all-school Sock Hop on September 19 featuring The Loading Zone and sponsored by the Senior and Sophomore classes.

Ernie Hickson is the Capuchino principal, and assistant principals are Arthur Hopgood and Mrs. Mary Lee Santee.

Science, Math Offered At New College

A look through the Skyline College 1969-70 catalog finds mathematics and physical sciences course offerings abundant, both in day and evening programs.

Classes for the students can be found in such areas as aeronautics, physics, chemistry, geology, oceanography, mathematics, engineering, geography, astronomy, and physical science.

Cletus S. Banwarth, chairman of the mathematics and physical science division in working with his staff to develop the various programs points out that "while some offerings for the current fall semester are somewhat limited and others are more extensive, we are already planning for additional courses for succeeding semesters in all areas of the math and physical sciences."

The aeronautics program is designed to lead to official approval by the Federal Aviation Agency and employment possibilities in maintenance and repair fields at both large and small airports.

The physical science courses which include work with other divisions are designed to give the student both a specific science and general education leading to the Associated in Arts degree.

The mathematics area range in such courses as algebra, geometry, trigonometry, calculus programs to satisfy requirements in both career and state college and university needs.

The physics department will have the latest equipment; the engineering curriculum is designed for both AA degree completions and transfer credits; the chemistry department also possesses the finest materials and equipment.

The earth sciences — geology, geography, oceanography, astronomy — are designed for both lecture and laboratory work and study by non-science and science majors.

Persons interested in Skyline College's math-physical science offerings are urged to contact the college.

Peninsula Band To Set Tryouts

Tryouts for experienced percussion, brass and woodwind players will be held by the Peninsula Community Band on Monday, September 15 and 22.

Trials and signups take place at 7:30 p.m. in room 127 of Palo Alto High School, El Camino Real at Embarcadero Road.

Advanced snare dummer-tympanists are needed in the percussion section of the band. Larger drum equipment is furnished by the band.

In the brasses, positions are open for several trumpets, French horns and a single bass trombonist.

Clarinet and bassoon vacancies exist in the woodwind section of the band.

The Peninsula Community Band is the oldest established nonprofessional instrumental group on the Peninsula, having been in existence since about 1943. Bandmaster Nathan Chasin is nearing completion of his fifteenth year as head of the band.

Musicians who are interested in joining the band and can attend most practices and all concerts should apply to band manager Robert L. Holland, after 5:30 p.m.

Legitimate msuical experience in professional, military or college symphonic bands or orchestras is required, Chasin said.

The band is in rehearsal on Monday nights for its fall concert, Friday, November 21 at Gunn High School. A spring program also is planned for March 19 at Gunn.

The group has adult and student members from San Francisco to San Jose inclusive.

Square Dance Reprieve By S.S.F. Mayor

Two South San Francisco square dance groups nearly were promenaded right out of their home of 10 years until Mayor Frank J. Bertucelli last week decided he would call the next turn by setting a pow-wow for September 17.

Vernon Branco, 461 Gardenside Avenue, South San Francisco, representing the square dancers, told the councilmen he and his fellow dancers were asked to terminate use of Siebecker Recreation Center, 510 Elm Court, in a letter signed by Robert Maxey, superintendent of Recreation and Parks.

The reason for the eviction was to allow a group of semi-professional players, called the Julian Players, to use the center, and make it their permanent home.

Mayor Bertucelli also read a letter, from Robert Bridges, chairman of the city's Culture and Fine Arts Committee, in which the city was asked to give the players support and encouragement in the form of a guarantee of the use of the center.

"There's something radically wrong here," said Bertucelli. "Does culture include courtesy and consideration? We (the council) want to see them (the players) make progress, but we don't want to throw out one group for another.

From the flow of conversation last night, the theater group apparently has all but taken over the center.

Pleading his case, Branco said an addition to an existing stage has been built, extending out into the dance area. The building has been rewired for 220 volts of electricity and spotlights have been set up.

"We are a self - supporting group, and we also pay a fee to the recreation and park department for use of the center," said Branco. "We've been here ten years, and as a matter-of-fact have been co-sponsored by the recreation and park department on many occasions."

Branco said he felt the groups he represented were definitely a cultural group, as well as ambassadors of goodwill for the city.

"We are very concerned about this civic theater group moving in and moving us out," he said. "We don't want to hog the center, but we don't want to be put out in the street. It hasn't affected just us either," said Branco. "A subteen group, 6-11, has been moved to Orange Park because of the drama group."

The square dancers had been using the hall on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Councilman Patrick Ahern sided with the mayor by asking City Manager Tom McKenzie who gave the authority for the construction of a stage addition, rewiring of the electricity and putting up spotlights.

McKenzie referred to $3500 the council had budgeted to the Culture and Fine Arts Committee.

"This money was for their use in case they didn't make their own way on attendance," said Ahern. "It was meant only as a way for them to meet their bills, guaranteeing the city's credit."

Councilman Frank Mammini came to the rescue of Maxey, who was said to be on vacation. "We should wait to hear from Mr. Maxey," he said.

"It was on the recreation and parks agenda for action to evict these people," said Bertucelli.

Mammini acknowledged this fact but stressed that the councilmen should wait and hear all sides to the story, and set up a meeting "to straighten this thing out." —Bob Peterson

'Poor, Inefficient'

State Consultant Is Critical Of County Law Enforcement

By FRANK LaPIERRE

San Mateo County's law enforcement systems were labeled "poor and inefficient" by Chief Edward M. Toothman, senior consultant to the Peace Officers' Standards and Training department in Sacramento Thursday.

Toothman, an expert in the law enforcement field, tore apart the present system of police departments in San Mateo County cities during a meeting of the North San Mateo County Council of Cities in Daly City.

He called these departments "fragmented," "costly" and pointed out they do not serve the community."

Noting that incidence of burglary had risen sharply (up 14 per cent in 1968) throughout the county, Toothman revealed there has been a dramatic decline in the percentage of those crimes solved—only 18 per cent.

More Sophisticated

Main reason for this upsurge in unsolved crimes is that criminals are becoming increasingly more mobile and sophisticated in the commission of crimes, while most police units throughout the nation tend to stick to their old, and outdated, records and communications systems, Toothman said.

To combat this, police agencies need more co-ordination and more co-operation.

In other words, Chief Toothman explained, police should be trying to "hold the line on costs" while combatting the increasing number of crimes.

"I realize there will be some reluctance on the part of cities to turn over control (to a central unit)," Toothman said.

Not One Adequate

But he noted that under the present setup "not one record system in (San Mateo) county is adequate . . . they do not contain complete records on criminals working this area."

At the present time, San Mateo County cities (seven in the north county) have individual records and communications systems. Some are bigger operations than others. However, Toothman feels they are all inadequate and favor the criminal—not police units themselves.

He suggests a central communications and records center as a start toward more efficient law enforcement throughout the county.

To support his stand, Toothman explained the operation of PIN (Police Identification Network) in two East Bay metropolitan areas and how PIN has aided in apprehending criminals on the spot. He also went briefly into the revolutionary new system being inaugurated in Los Angeles.

The L.A. system uses video tape for identification (fingerprints, photos, etc.) and can flash them in seconds to other stations for quick recognition. San Mateo County could be the leader in this new concept — that of consolidating records and communications under a single roof, according to Toothman.

"If you were to go into it, you would be entering into a new frontier," Toothman said.

And if the cities did decide to try out the updated consolidation Toothman felt "funds would likely be forthcoming (from the State)."

In covering the high points of law enforcement operations in the county, Toothman praised training of police here.

Council chairman Harland A. Menshew asked for a vote on a resolution to study the feasibility of consolidation and six of the seven participating cities voted "yes."

Burglaries Prove SSF Headache

By BOB PETERSON

One thing about the South San Francisco Police Department's monthly report to the city councilmen is that it's consistent not only in regular appearance but generally in number and types of crimes.

Take, for example, the report for the month of July, which was received and filed by the councilmen at their last meeting.

Aside from disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace offenses, burglaries appear to be the biggest headache for the South San Francisco police.

The number of violations of the former was 76 and the latter 59. For comparison, the July 1968 figures showed disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace offenses numbering 80, four more than this year. Burglaries, however, went up during the past year, from 45 to this year's 59, a gain of 14.

Automobile thefts went up four from last year, from 20 to 24. Cases of drunkness doubled last year's figure, from 15 to 30. Assault and battery incidences dropped, from 13 last July to seven this year.

Not counting those categories which remained at zero—murder, manslaughter and rape—two others came up with the same figure. They were the category of forgery, embezzlement and check offenses at 7 both this year and last July, and violations of traffic and motor vehicle laws at 14 during each period.

Other comparison figures show robberies down to zero from three last July; one assault with a deadly weapon incident this July, compared with none last year; and two fewer grand theft offenses, from 6 down to 4.

Receiving, possessing and buying stolen property reported one case to none last July. A catch-all category titled vice, also reported one case to none last July. Sex offenses were up two, from three last July to five this year. Narcotic law offenses grew by one, from four to five, while liquor law offenses grew by four, from zero last July to four during the month of July this year. Driving while intoxicated offenses also increased by two, from five to seven.

For any offenses and arrests nor previously mentioned, there is a category titled all other offenses. This July it totaled 385. Last July the figure was 341.

There are other sections to this report. Like the total number of traffic accidents during a month. Last July it was 100. This year the figure dropped by seven, to 93. Injuries went down too, from 19 to 12. Fatalities remained the same, one for each July.

The processing of traffic warrants nearly doubled this July from last, 269 to 460 this year. Non-hazardous violations and parking violations also went up. From 70 to 72 for the former and 192 to 146 for the latter.

Hazardous violations went down from 559 to 410, meter violations from 739 to 721, juvenile traffic citations from 43 to 35 and business license citations from 9 to 5.

The number of adults arrested and charged during July last year was 50. July this year there were 55. Juveniles in the same category last year numbered 42. This year in July there were 63.

The number of times the policeman does such things as closing an open door or window to prevent incidents also increased, from 328 last July to 337 this July.

In fact, total crime, police incidents and other offenses, excluding traffic accidents, went up from 723 during July of last year to 824 during July of this year.

There are only slight variations throughout the report. Next July's figures probably will fall right into place.

Daly City Man Is Arrested For Beating

A 24-year-old Daly City man was arrested and charged with robbery, grand theft, auto theft, and kidnapping after he allegedly beat a man who had befriended him.

Police said Samuel Freitas, 24, of 134 McDonald Avenue, was picked up by Daly City detectives after he was apprehended in San Francisco last week.

The blazarre case developed when Excell McMorris, 34, of 48 Frankfort Street met Freitas and Raymond Jojola, of San Francisco, last month and the pair escorted McMorris to his Daly City home.

Once inside the home, police said, Freitas and Jojola attempted to walk off with some of the McNorris' property.

When he tried to stop them they allegedly beat him and forced him at knifepoint to drive them back to San Francisco.

Bruno Marine Reserves Named Outstanding Infantry Unit in Corps

MARINE CORPS BASE, 29 Palms—The San Bruno marine Reserve Battalion has been named outstanding infantry unit in the Marine Corps Reserve, the commandant of the Marine Corps has announced.

Headquartered in San Bruno, the third battalion, Twenty-third Marines has companies in Stockton, Santa Rosa, San Rafael and in Reno, Nev. It is commanded by Lt. Col. Howard A. Looney, Hillsborough.

The award is named in honor of Gen. Harry Schmidt, USMC, retired, who led the battle ashore at Iwo Jima. He also commanded the Fourth Marine Division in World War II.

The division now consists of Reserve units of three regiments, the Twenty-third at Alameda, Calif.; the Twenty-fourth at Kansas City, Kansas, and the Twenty-fifth at Boston, Mass.

According to the Marine Corps Reserve Officers Association, donators of the award, it is an annual award given for overall excellence. Of prime importance in selecting the top infantry battalion is its high state of readiness for mobilization and its performance at annual training duty.

Fourth Marine Division headquarters at Camp Pendleton, Calif., said the third battalion Marine Reserves "were able to develop into a highly effective and flexible unit. This Battalion is especially strong in aggressive and decisive action in the field."

Lt. Col. Looney has issued a letter of congratulations to the officers and men of his command and presented the award officially at a Regimental Parade this Saturday, August 30, at Marine Corps Base 29 Palms.

More than 8,000 citizen-Marines completed two weeks of annual training duty at the desert base this summer.

Many famous personalities and VIPs, including Gen. Lewis Walt, assistant commandant of the Marine Corps, have observed the training conducted by Marines from all walks of life.

There have been doctors, lawyers, students, teachers, cooks, baseball and football players, policemen, real estate agents and even a ballet dancer among many other diversified occupations.

Marines came to their summer training from as far away as Rochester, N.Y. and as close as Anaheim, Calif.

The first increment rolled onto the base in busses June 14. During these first weeks Camp Wilson was constructed by two engineer companies form Tucson, Ariz. and Youngstown, Ohio.

Camp Wilson's "Tent City" has been the basis of operation for the reserve units' training. The city was designed to house more than 3,500 Marines.

Preparation for the two large increments of Marines continued throughout June. Members of an ammunition platoon from Washington, D.C., which serviced the reserves with ammunition throughout the summer, constructed the ammo dump which housed more than a million pounds of ammunition.

The population of the base doubled twice during the summer. The first two-week census jump occurred in July when more than 3,200 artillerymen with the 14th Marine Regiment and supporting units reported aboard the base.

The artillerymen's first week was spent in the gun park firing the big guns and preparing for the big second week.

Cordite Junction, an artillery regimental exercise conceived by Col. Vincent Robinson, 14th Marines commanding officer, was the largest concentration of Marine reservists ever assembled in America.

Their general objective, according to Col. Robinson, was, "to change from a geographic reserve structure to a tactial structure to rout out the attacking nation and prove the 14th Marines are indeed ready."

During the first two weeks of August 1,200 missile Marines trained at the base.

Three units comprised the reserves training for two weeks but the largest unit was 4th LAAM Bn., headquartered here.

They received instruction in their MOS, received on-the-job-training and conducted a Hawk missile shoot.

The last (and the largest) increment of reserve Marines, the re-enforced 23rd Marine Regiment, terminated the base's reserve training when they began their departure.

Several company and battalion size operations were conducted by this infantry unit including the 2nd Bn. "Operation Scorpion."

This four-day exercise consisted of aggression and retaliation actions by two reserve units. The 98th Rifle Company served as the outnumbered aggressors. Second Bn. sought to reach their eventual objective, Quackenbush Pass, by leapfrogging their four companies around the aggressors.

Approval by Local Officials of BART Extension Plans Urged by County

County Manager M. D. Tarshes and County Engineer Don S. Wilson were authorizd last week to contact municipal officials in Daly City, South San Francisco, San Bruno and Millbrae to assure that any extensions of the Bay Area Rapid Transit system in the county to serve the San Francisco International Airport will meet with approval of local officials.

The two county officials asked authorization to meet with representatives of the four north county cities to make sure future public hearings will be held before any final rapid transit decisions are made by San Francisco.

"We believe it is extremely important that the county be aware of any plans that our neighboring counties of San Francisco and Santa Clara may be considering that may effect our county," Tarshes and Wilson wrote, "and that we cooperate in any such planning to the extent that it is required to see that San Mateo County's interests are properly protected.

"In this connection and pursuant to your direction, we have met with staff representatives of the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission and others concerning their recently proposed plan for a study of an extension of the BART line from Daly City to serve the San Francisco International Airport.

Representatives of the cities of Daly City, South San Francisco, San Bruno, through which the line would presumably pass, were also in attendance.

Tarshes and Wilson recommended that supervisors be directly responsible for any decision concerning mass transit in the county in the future, and that the county's Greater Highway Committee serve as a citizens advisory group.

BARTD Station

Underground Facility Still Not in Works

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Daly City City manager David Rowe took the wraps off the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's latest proposed agreement for a terminus station on Knowles Avenue during a study session of the council last week.

BARTD had sent the proposed agreement to the city some time ago, but city manager Rowe kept the agreement under tight-lipped security until the Tuesday night meeting.

Last week this newspaper was informed by a BARTD spokesman that "an agreement has been given to Daly City which is thought to meet all requirements" for the station.

Asked if the city had indeed received such a communication, Rowe evaded the question by noting the often-controversial sation plan would be on Tuesday's study session agenda, refusing to acknowledge any progress made between the city and BARTD.

The "secret" missile was not all that secret as it was revealed to the four member council attending the session (Councilman Francis P. Pacelli was absent).

In essence, the proposed station design, traffic routing and parking at the station is a major change from those plans proposed almost five years ago, but remain the same as plans presented during recent months.

Certain phrasing in the draft agreement received by the City Manager's Office on July 3 did not sit well with City Attorney Albert Polonsky, and in an inter-office memorandum to Rowe he pointed out in 17 paragraphs his opinions on the agreement.

In a letter to the city council dated September 2 (the same date as attorney Polonsky's) Rowe explanied both the city's concern in various areas such as parking and street improvements, and BARTD's proposed agreement.

There was no basic change in BARTD's refusal to put the station underground as Daly City has insisted on over the past five years. Officials continue to raise a clamor over the fact that the transit district originally promised an underground facility, bounced over to an aerial sation and now desires to construct a "cut" facility.

The "cut" will still be some 22 feet in height as it passes over Knowles Avenue and runs southward down the Peninsula—if the line is extended to International Airport as has been recommended by several San Francisco supervisors.

Rowe maintains in his letter that all agreements with BARTD must be based on the subject site being a terminus station for BARTD's Mission line and the station and area not to be altered at a later date for any purpose other than as a transit station.

In closing, Rowe recommended the agreement be "favorably considered" by the council—not necessarily approved.

Talks have gone on between Daly City and BARTD for the past four years, with each side often blaming the other for either lack of communication on the subject or failing to cooperate with the other.

In recent months, an all-out effort has been made by each side to get station construction underway before inflation eats away more of BARTD's dollars.

The council has proceeded with caution since learning of plans for extension of the line to the airport, fearing an aerial track would mar the asthectic values of the neighborhoods it passed through.

Asked if the council's approval of the BARTD station itself would hinge on the far off plans of the airport extension, Mayor Bernard Lycett said, "In my own opinion, I would say no."

There are some 33 homes backing onto the present Southern Pacific tracks, probable route of the proposed extension.

Councilman Michael DeBernardi spoke out against an aerial track down this section because of the noise and view factor that would be generaed by the transit line.

The matter was handed back to staff for more study and may be brought up again at Monday's regular meeting.

Then There Was This Big Thump . . .

Last Tuesday evening Ralph Ellinwood of 704 Seventh Avenue, San Bruno, heard a loud thump on his roof.

He went outside to check out the noise but finding nothing wrong, returned to his house and went to bed.

San Bruno police today report that the noise Ellinwood heard was a metal covering of an airplane engine that had hit his roof, bounced off and fell to rest against a fence. The cowling reportedly did minor damage to both the northeast edge of the house and the fence.

Police said a representative of the FAA is scheduled to retrieve the engine covering, apparently coming off the engine of a Boeing 707, to determine why it separated from the airplane.

STUDY MEET

A study meeting of the City of San Bruno Park and Recreation Commission will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday, September 10, in the Meeting Room of the War Memorial Recreation Center located in the City Park on Crystal Springs at Donner.

SENIOR FROM S.S.F. HAS HIGH HOPES

The Year of Greg Jones at UCLA

A More Representative Player Won't Be Found

By RON REID
Post Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES — You can look, but you'll have trouble finding a more representative player than Greg Jones on the football roster of the UCLA Bruins this year — a most suitable quality for a collegian whose future plans include a fling at politics.

Jones, a senior from South San Francisco, may be the hardest running Democrat since Hubert Humphrey, with fewer smiles perhaps, but better success.

Going into his final year at UCLA, where the Pacific-Eight Skywriters touched down last week on the first stop of their eight-school jaunt, Greg needs but 579 yards to wind up second on the Bruins' all-time rushing roster.

Should he improve that total to 778 yards (a distinct possibility even in a Republican year; he will surpass the legendary Kenny Washington as No. 1. The best thing to happen to Westwood since invention of the mini-skirt, and give the local fanatics one more reason to praise the football products of San Mateo County.

Jones, like his team, has matured considerably since the glory year of 1967, when he worked in the Bruin backfield with Gary Beban, another Peninsula lad who accomplished heroic football deeds before he departed with the Heisman trophy.

The glory of that season, however, was sullied by a 21-20 loss to USC which knocked Tommie Prothro's team out of the Rose Bowl. Like his current teammates, Jones remembers.

Last year, the Bruins' hopes were shot down by inexperience, more injuries than the battlefield scene from "Gone With the Wind" and a quarterback problem left by Beban's departure that never was resolved. They finished up a dismal 3-7.

Having experienced both ends of the football spectrum, Jones is voting for the former in this, his final season.

Today, UCLA's Jones boy is relaxed, self-confident and talks easily of his ambitions — qualities that he will obviously have to change if his political plans are for real.

As such, he is a perfect example of Prothro's 1969 squad, which is blessed with more seniors than a graduation dance and rank as a formidable PAC-8 contender for that reason.

"I want to go to the Rose Bowl," Jones said. "This is my last year and this has to be the one. We came within one point of going in my sophomore year and last year turned out to be a disaster, so this is it, and I think we can do it."

From Jones, the hope sounds less like a campaign promise than a prediction, perhaps since the optimism is shared by Prothro himself.

"I'm not saying how many we're gonna win," Prothro stated, "or who we're gonna beat, but I think we're going to have a pretty good football team this year."

Of Jones, Prothro says, "He really doesn't have a great abundance of anything but desire. He's strong, but not strong like a fullback. He's fast, but he hasn't got breakaway speed. He's shifty, but not like a Mickey Cureton (Jones' running mate). He just does everything well with every gut in his body."

With those qualities, Jones should contend mightily for the elective office of Rose Bowl participant this season.

So should his team.

GREG JONES . . . Politics, too

Third League Bandwagon Hopped On

By LE PACINI

C. C. JOHNSON SPINK, publisher of baseball's Bible, the Sporting News, recently editorially joined the band wagon for a third major league.

We don't know if Spink or his father, the late J. G. Taylor Spink, were among those who politely called Paul Fagan a nut back in 1946 for advocating exactly the same thing, but if he is, we herewith laugh up our sleeve at him in behalf of the departed Mr. Fagan.

Admittedly, Fagan didn't have exactly the same set-up in mind when he called for a third big league. His idea was to merely have the Pacific Coast League as a unit certified a major league. No franchise shifts or anything so complicated. His logic was unassabilable unless, of course, you happened to own an "eastern" team (as Fagan used to call the Biggies), in which case his logic was that of a mad man. Fagan felt that if it hadn't been for the PCL furnishing so many great players to the Eastern leagues, that their brand of ball wouldn't have been any better than the Coast's — if the Coast had managed to keep all of the players it had sent East. So Fagan — and this is a simplification — just figured on talking all of the other Coast League owners into keeping their stars and that it would take no time at all for all three leagues — the National, the American and the Pacific Coast — to become equal.

WHAT FAGAN DIDN'T figure on was his own — the other owners — in effect turning on him. They thought he was a nut, too- To be perhaps more precise, they just didn't take him seriously. They looked on him as a pampered millionaire who had bought himself a toy — the San Francisco Seals — and would soon tire of it. He was a clown, an ignoramus in the world of baseball, an intruder.

Probably what annoyed other owners more than Fagan's reckless visions was his flamboyance (often confused with "class"), his easy willingness to depart from tradition. In other words, he made the other owners look dull, stodgy, stufy and cheap.

Fagan burst onto the scene in 1945, when he rescued Charley Graham and his beloved Seals with a check for a quarter of a million dollars, good for the purchase of one-third interest. And then this scion of wealthy San Franciso banking family (he also dabbled in steamship companies and Hawaiian pineapples) loudly announced that he wanted no salary, no immediate profits — that he wanted only to bring major league baseball to San Francisco by 1950!

HIS EARLY STRATEGY was to make the Seals look and feel like big leaguers. He began by making Seals Stadium possibly the most beautiful and efficient stadium in baseball.

He asked which baseball stadium had the best lighting system. He was told it was Yankee Stadium. So he installed a system in Seals Stadium which was at least the equal of the one in larger Yankee Stadium. He bought rare turf and imported a lawn expert from a Scottish golf course to install it to make the Seals Stadium grounds the finest in the game. He sacrificed an annual $20,000 revenue in order to make the stadium more restful for the fans and to give the hitters a better background, by removing all advertising from the outfield walls. There wasn't another stadium in the country which could claim completely "clean" outfield walls. He installed the world's first all-glass backstop (100 X 20 feet) at a cost of $10,000. He provided motorized "trains" to pick up cushions, dressed his army of groundskeepers in sterile white uniforms and gave them motorized carts to smooth the infield; put custom-made $100 uniforms on the country's first female usherettes — and made sure that they were almost all young and pretty. He even let fans keep balls that were hit in the stands — unhead of in the minors. He put a barber chair in the clubhouse to insure that his players were always clean-cut, and made the ladies' rest room so gorgeous that most female fans thereafter spent their time in the ladies' lounge listening to the game on radio. He built an observation tower to spot drunks and-or other rowdies, or persons in trouble. (The observation tower not only nipped numerous riots in the bud, but also saved a miscarriage and rescued a heart-attack victim). He endeared himself to what would now be called the communications media by building a deluxe press box and radio booth. And he continually painted, cleaned and polished the stadium.

FAGAN WAS JUST warming up in what the other owners were by now calling "Fagans Folly." He gave Lefty O'Doul a reported (and it's never been denied) $45-$50,000 to manage the Seals. (There probably wasn't a major league manager then making that much). When he discovered that the minimum annual wage for a big league player was $5,000, he made sure that the lowest Seal substitute made at least that much (when first baseman Ferris Fain was drafted by the Athletics in 1946 he refused to report because he said he would be taking too much of a salary cut.) Fagan made the Seals the first minor league team to regularly fly to its road games. (They stayed at the best hotels), and set up their spring training camp in Hawaii. And he continually pounded away at the players that they should at all times act big league, exude class; wear suits and ties in public, tip big, act gentlemanly.

"Fagan's Folly" set a still-standing minor league attendance record of 670,000 in 1946, and in those early good years continually out-drew several major league clubs.

But you know the end of the story. Fagan refused to act as a farm team for the majors while his less heroic brethern continued the tactic. His best players continued to be picked up for $10,000 in the annual minor league draft because Fagan's fellow owners refused to back him in a plan to refute the draft and in effect go outlaw. While the other clubs loaded up, the independent Seals slipped ever lower into the second division, and attendance plummeted.

BUT IT WAS NOT Fagan's failure, nor was it baseball's. It was history's failure. Paul Fagan, who in 1945 said, "The majors . . . the Yawkeys and the Stoneham's (will be) begging us to join up," was simply one jump ahead of history.

YOU MAY REMEMBER our column of a few weeks ago in which we discussed Robert Kalich's fascinating book, "The Baseball Rating Handbook." Kalich, as we pointed out, has devised a complex mathematical system of grading players past and present. We reprinted his first five All Time All Star teams.

Kalich had some surprises, including an unexpected number of modern players. Perhaps the most surprising aspect of his selections was his pick of third basemen. After the nonpareil Pie Traynor, he chose all contemporary players — Brooks Robinson, Eddie Mathews, Ron Santo and Ken Boyer, in that order, with "Honorable Mentions" to John McGraw and George Kell.

Conspicuously missing from any mention were the only two Home Run Baker.

Hall of Fame third baseman after Traynor, Jimmy Collins and

It's strange that there have been only three Hall of Fame hot sackers — the poorest represented position in The Hall — and that the position — outside of catcher — most representative of the supposed blood 'n guts attitude of the old-timers, should be apparently dominated by essentially modern finesse players.

Traynor, incidentally, is the best argument we know of for our contention that fielding averages mean next to nothing. There isn't a baseball expert living who will deny that Traynor was at the very worst one of the greatest defensive third basemen of all time (most of the experts claim he was undoubtedly the best), yet Traynor had a lifetime fielding average of only .945, lower than Kell's, Robinson's, Santo's, Mathews', either of the Boyer brothers, Jimmy Davenports, and Don Wert's, to name a few.

Youth Nabbed As Mannequin Disappears

A 19-year-old Colma youth was arrested minutes after a store front window at the Westlake Shopping Center was smashed Saturday and the intruder had run off with a display mannequin.

An early morning stroller saw a youth break out the plate glass window of the New England Shop, grab the dummy and run towards a nearby apartment complex.

He immediately called police, who saturated the neighborhood with police units.

Officer Jewell Baco reported he picked up a youth answering the suspect's description walking around the apartment complex.

Inside a laundromat police found the suspect's old clothes.

Arrested and charged with burglary was Barry Waller, 19, of 751 Thornhill Street, Colma.

The search for the missing mannequin is still continuing.

The main fire was next to a refrigerator, a few feet from the water heater. There also was smoke damage to the house, according to the firemen.

S.S.F. May Pay Tab on Sidewalks

The city of South San Francisco will temporarily pick up the residents' tab for construction of sidewalks on El Camino Real in order to keep the project moving.

Widening and improving El Camino Real into a six-lane divided highway is a joint state and city project, estimated to cost approximately $665,000. Cost to the city will be approximately $245,000.

The sidewalk construction has been estimated to cost approximately $22,000. The state will pay some of the sidewalk costs, but the majority of the cost will be assessed to the property owners.

The city has approved the state's plans and specifications for the improvement. They are now working on the sidewalk assessments.

Louis Goss, director of public works, told city councilmen the state is getting ready to call for bids on the project, and is requesting a deposit equal to the estimated cost of the project.

Due to timing, Goss recommended city councilmen authorize payment, including the sidewalk assessment amount, to be paid in the form of a loan to the state.

College Hunts Homes For Nigerians

"We urgently need inexpensive housing for three to five Nigerian students who will be enrolled at Skyline College," Mrs. Bernice Lowry, counselor in charge of the foreign students, declared today.

These students either work for 15 hours a week for their room and board or can pay a nominal amount (approximately $40 to $65).

"Of course the benefits derived by an American family with a foreign student are important. These include a chance to get to know people of other cultures, become acquainted with different foods, and the opportunity to know and learn about another language," Mrs. Lawry stated.

This coming Friday, September 12 between 4-6 p.m. the Skyline College foreign students will be guests at a reception in the Pacifica Public Library sponsored by the American Red Cross. Persons interested in providing housing for these foreign students can contact Mrs. Lowry.

Addition To Kitchen Is Turned Down

A variance has been denied and a revision to a use permit granted by the San Bruno planning commissioners.

The variance was requested for a kitchen addition at 2569 Trenton Drive. Planning commissioners denied the request because they felt the large side yard space requested would set a precedent.

The granted revision to a use permit was for a service station at the northwest corner of Third and San Bruno Avenues.

Commissioners had approved a use permit back in May regarding pump islands, and later approved a change in the pump island locations.

The applicant sought and received a return to the first proposal subject to certain conditions, including no major car repair area, no light reflection, no deliveries up Third Avenue, no trash placed between the building and the setback area and a requirement to have an inside bell after 10 p.m.

Shotgun Misses; Man Is Arrested

A Bethel Island man has been booked for attempted murder by South San Francisco police after reportedly firing a shotgun at another man Friday night.

According to the police report Larry Buffington, 24, walked up to Charles Mozzetti, 23, of Brisbane, at Oyster Point and Industrial Way in South San Francisco and said "Charlie you're dead."

Police said Mozzetti fell to the ground and heard a loud bang as buckshot whizzed overhead.

Buffington apparently was jealous of a relationship between his wife and Mozzetti, police said.

It was the suspect's wife, Carol Ann, who reported the incident to the police. She had earlier talked to Mozzetti about her husband's intent to harm Mozzetti, police said.

The suspect was found hiding in the back seat of his wife's car outside the police station.

Burglar Has a Ball In San Bruno

While Henry R. Sanford, of 349 Chapman Avenue, San Bruno, was on vacation in Oregon, Washington and Canada, someone pried open the living room window to his home, sipped his wine and escaped with articles valued at $2,500.

Sanford told San Bruno police Monday someone entered his home while he was on vacation and ransacked all the rooms, and even drank some wine Sanford had left in the refrigerator.

Police said items reported missing include jewelry, binoculars, a tape deck, amplifier, turntable, revolver, bowling ball, typewriter, a jacket and some keys.

Items valued at $3,845 were reported stolen to South San Francisco police by Albert Bok, 23, of 2340 Bourbon Court.

Police said entrance was made through a broken rear window. Among items reported missing were tools, bowling ball, spare tire, lamps, hassock, camera, television, stereo, chair, clothing, vacuum cleaner, desk, jewelry and an electric blanket.

'Teacher-Aide' Program To Dip Into County's Schools

Those Skyline College students who plan to enter the teaching profession will be working with an energetic and experienced person in Tom Saltz, director of the SC Teacher-Aide program.

Along with teaching the Introduction to Education course at the Bay Area's newest community college, Saltz has declared that he plans to make use of "a wide range of skills, training, experience, background, and potential in order to provide a better learning environment than is now possible with the use of only one teacher to meet the individual needs of many pupils."

The new director holds a BS degree from the University of Minnesota and MA graduate work in social science at San Jose State College.

His carcer in teaching and education include such areas: working with the mentally gifted students in the poverty areas; institutes for racial minority groups in teacher education; active in San Jose Unified School District and Santa Clara Valley in the areas of TV In-Service, family life education, social sciences, international relations, and theatre arts activities.

Saltz emphasized that "community envolvement, especially parents, can help in the home-school-child interactions as well as planning educational programs in making the education relevant to the needs, interests, and real concerns of the school population.

Thus by instituting a teacher-aide program at Skyline College at the outset Saltz stated that "Skyline College is hopeful of establishing a new career line for the schools thus fostering career development, and leadership and motivation in the professional growth of the participating students."

Two Held For Burglary

South San Francisco police arrested two men on suspicion of burglary. Wilbur C. Wise, 27, of Mountain View, and Gregory H. Rey, 21, of Millbrae, were booked at 2:07 a.m. Monday.

Police said they were on routine patrol at 192 Beacon Street, when they observed the suspects apparently leaving the back door of the RCA Service Company.

According to the police, the suspects climbed over one fence, cut through another and forced in a door.

Wise was held in $4,000 bail in Northern District Municipal Court on a burglary charge, yesterday. Rey was to be arraigned today.

Grease Fire In Pacifica

Overheated grease damaged a kitchen range and cabinetry in the Lowell McGrew home at 1637 Higgins Way, Pacifica, Monday.

Pacifica firemen said the family was getting ready for a supper of hamburgers and French fries when the grease in a pan on the stove ignited at 8 p.m.

Flame damage was confined to one side of the kitchen, the stove and cabinets, but there was "quite a bit of smoke" throughout the home, firemen said.

Police said the driver had turned left onto Toyon Way from Rollingwood Drive when the victim ran out into the street.

Reports Theft

A television, stereo and records valued at $710 was reported stolen to San Bruno police by Patrick Wait, of 1701 Willow Way.

Police said the burglary took place during the day. According to police, there were no signs of forced entry, but the front door had been left unlocked.

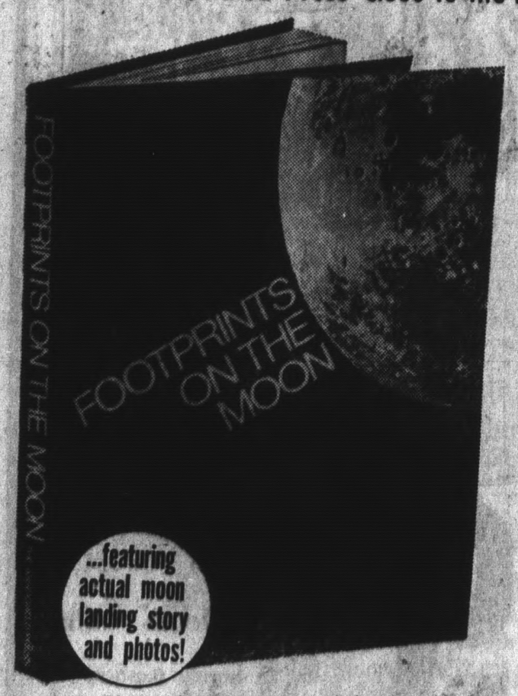
FOOTPRINTS ON THE MOON

An Associated Press Close-to-the-News Documentary



Never again will there be a first landing on the moon.

And never again will there be such a volume as this.

Written by John Barbour, an outstanding journalist who has been helping cover the thrust into space from the start, its 70,000-word text includes much new material and is complemented by more than a hundred of the most dramatic color pictures ever taken.

To make sure that you get your copy of a first edition that doubtless will become a collector's item, you should make your reservation now.

You and your children and your children's children will find it a volume to treasure.

'Screaming Eagles' Return Compliment to San Mateo

By VERA GRAHAM

The plaque reads:
"To the People of San Mateo
"With Gratitude and
"Appreciation From
"The Officers and Men of Alpha Co.
"The ABU'S"

That plaque occupies a very special place of honor today in the San Mateo City Hall.

It was presented to Mayor Hugh A. Wayne in an informal little ceremony during Founders Day. There was no fanfare or big to-do. . . .

The mayor received the plaque from two young men who came a long way to personally convey the thanks of their buddies. They are Company Commander Captain Frederick Raymond, 29, of New York City, and Lt. Joseph Navalesi, 20, who at 18 was commissioned a lieutenant.

Their crisp tan uniforms sparkle with battle ribbons, citation ribbons and ribbons designating award of the Silver Star, Bronze Star, the Air Medal, Army Commendation Medal, the Good Conduct Ribbon, Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry, the Vietnamese Service Ribbon. And there are three Presidential Unit Citations which bear proud testimony to the historic valor of the men of the 101st.

Asked how they got the Silver Star, Captain Raymond grins, "Oh, a year ago in April I managed to get to the top of the hill . . . I got hit on the side of the head. It didn't hurt me, but it sure got me mad!"

And Lt. Navalesi adds . . . "I haven't got mine yet . . . " "But he will," says Capt. Raymond . . . How did he earn it? "I just managed to get out of an ambush," Navalesi comments only . . . but apparently he succeeded in getting others out of that ambush.

There's a unique quality about such young men who have faced not only death — but themselves and come up winners. They lived up to the highest demand — and have brought pride not only to themselves, their company, their country — but San Mateo which has "adopted" them as members of the "Screaming Eagles" Battalion.

Their worst time during their months of service (a total of 30 between the two men) was a relentless mid-July encounter with the enemy in the A-Shau Valley. Two companies from the Third Brigade withstood two days of steady contact. "We were hit pretty hard — and they sent in reinforcements. Like the Lone Ranger, they kept on coming. They didn't hurt us, but kept us pretty busy," says Raymond.

A comment to the effect that such wartime experience brings premature maturity, brought a quick retort from the Captain . . . "I don't know about maturity, but you sure get scared a lot!"

The South Vitenamese army, ARVIN is making rapid strides toward independent footing against the enemy. However, it is expected that support troops, aircraft, munitions must continue to be supplied by the U.S. until the conflict is brought to an end. If they aren't an independent fighting force within another year or so they never will be, they say.

When do the U.S. troops think the Vietnam war will come to an end? "Whenever they can reach some kind of an agreement in Paris — that's where the answers have to come from," states Captain Raymond.

How do the Vietnamese feel about the war, the U.S. troops?

"The vast majority are peasants . . . all they care about is their immediate life the 200 meters surrounding it . . . and, of course, they go with the side that has the power . . . What else can they do?

Flagrant black market operations are conducted on the street corners — to the indignation of U.S. fighting men. As to the Vietnamese, it is recognized as a way of their life, part of their economy.

With Ho Chi Minh's death, there is considerable interest among Americans in Vietnam as to what will happen in the North. They don't expect too much difference in position. However, the blow of Ho Chi Minh's death will strike the average North Vietnamese hard. Not only was the Communist leader considered the "George Washington" of his country, but he was the great fighting spirit — idealized and revered by the people say the troopers.

Recent months have indicated the heavy toll taken of North Vietnam's soldiers. It is common today to find the bodies of youths, 16, 17, 18 years of age — occasionally younger. They are considered the youngbloods, the fanatical fighters who virtually commit mass suicide for their cause.

"But," adds Capt. Raymond, "they are young. They are Gung Ho! — But — after a while, they don't have the staying power . . . They are not like the seasoned soldier who is a longer-lasting, tougher man to fight."

What's the feeling about the beginning of the pull-out of U.S. troops? Lt. Navalesi and Capt. Raymond say the U.S. troops believe the President is sincere. They anticipate the withdrawal will be a slow process. But, "we feel we're on the right track," comment the two men.

Morale is high in the line troops, it is further reported. And one thing the American people can be proud of — the youth of today is proving itself under the toughest conditions, Says Captain Raymond . . . "Maybe many don't believe in the war, or they don't like the army, they certainly don't care about being over there . . . But, they have been assigned a job to do — and they are doing it — first-class! When their year is up, they know they are on the way home. Until then they do what must be done . . . "

After this weekend, Captain Raymond is on his way for a brief visit home. His family includes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Raymond, two sisters, Judy and Barbara, and a brother, Herbert. The latter lives in Los Angeles, where Capt. Raymond will also be paying a visit.

Marriott Inn Set To Open Thursday

The first Marriott Inn in the United States will be officially opened in Belmont on Thursday, at 11:30 a.m. Civic dignitaries will join J. Willard Marriott, Sr., Kenneth W. O'Meara and Paul W. Chandler, Jr. in formal dedication ceremonies.

The 198-room luxury inn, located 10 minutes from the San Francisco Airport, is the first franchise to open here under the Marriott banner. The facility represents an investment of over three million dollars by the franchisee, O'Meara-Chandler Corporation of Houston, according to president Kenneth W. O'Meara. The property offers guests a swimming pool with landscaped patio area, specialty restaurant, family restaurant, cocktail lounge and convention and banque facilities which will accommodate up to 200 persons.

Future plans already include expansion of the Inn to 270 guest rooms. This is the first of three Marriott Inns planned by the OMeara-Chandler Corporation. The second, in Bloomington, Minnesota, is under construction and will open in December, and the third will be constructed in Seattle in 1970. All will be operated by O'Meara-Chandler's wholly-owned subsidiary, the Cle Corporation of Houston.

The Cle Corporation operates a number of other properties, including hotels, inns, apartment houses, and student residence halls and apartments at 10 university campuses. Two are operating on California State College campuses — the Carlos Bee Hall in Hayward, and El Conquistador in San Diego.

The parent company, the Marriott Corporation of Washington, D.C., has already franchised 20 inns that are to be opened and in operation by Fall of 1970. Over 100 are in development stages and slated for operation withing the next five years.

The inns will all feature individual buildings containing restaurants and complete convention and meeting facilities. Patterned after the deluxe accommodations in Marriott Motor Hotels, the franchise operations will be spearheaded by the Marriott Corporation.
